Merriam Loses; Democratic Sweep

MAYOR'S TICKET OVERWHELMED IN CITY BALLOT

Sullivan's Men Win 22 Seats, G. O. P. 12, Socialists 2.

The aldermanic election yesterday jolted the Thompson-city hall machine. There were upsets that were due to independent voters and other upsets that gave comfort to Democratic machine politics.

Ald. Charles E. Merriam was beaten in the Seventh ward for reëlection by William R. Fetzer by a plurality of 2,974. The Merriam vote—his name written on the ballot by his partisans—was just in excess of 3,500, a total which gave his friends much comfort even in his defeat.

Mayor Thompson's pet candidate, F. W. Patterson, went down to defeat in the Third ward. George F. Iliff was elected. The mayor also lost some of his other more or less faithful followers.

DEMOCRATS RULE COUNCIL.

In most of the town the Democrats ran riot, capturing the new city council by almost a two-thirds majority and electing the new city clerk and city treasurer with pluralities ranging from 14,000 to 32,000.

The total vote cast by all parties for city treasurer was 389,871—49 per cent of the registered vote. The total Socialist vote was 38,479. The percentage of men's vote to their registration was 56; of women's vote, 37 per cent.

Two of the five proposed bond issues were defeated—for garbage disposal and bathing beaches.

Former Senator Albert C. Clark was elected state senator in the Thirteenth district to fill the vacancy.

McCORMICK BEATS DEMOCRAT.

To Robert H. McCormick, who won with a wide margin—2,476 plurality—in the Twenty-first ward, came the distinction of being the only Republican elected who displaces a Democrat.

The Democrats elected twenty-two of the new thirty-six aldermen, the Republicans twelve, and the Socialists two, the Socialists gaining one vote in the council. Their strength is now three. The new council will stand:

Democrats	43
Republicans	24
Socialists	3

The Democrats made a net gain of eleven (new men), while returning all of their old members up for reëlection. They elected twelve new men, but the victory of McCormick in the Twenty-third ward, who displaces Ellis Geiger, defeated in the primary, cuts the net gain to 11.

KENNEDY'S BIG PLURALITY.

John C. Kennedy, Socialist, won in the Twenty-seventh ward by the biggest plurality victory in the entire city. He received a majority of all the votes cast in the ward. His plurality was 6,157 and his majority over all was 67.

While Kennedy was running wild in his territory the Socialists turned one of the big surprises of the day by electing Charles V. Johnson in the Ninth ward over both Von Meeteren, Demo-

Illinois Capital Goes "Dry"; Women's Votes Oust Saloons

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., April 3.—[Special.]—Springfield went dry today by an unofficial majority of 458. The women's vote—in 1914 Springfield women voted wet by a substantial majority—turned around and gave the dry majority that knocks out 215 saloons in the state capital.

It is the most formidable defeat the liquor interests have suffered in Illinois since the enactment of the township local option law and the law that permits women to vote. As an intrenched stronghold of legalized liquor selling the capital city was supposed to be substantially immune from the dry wave.

Prohibitionists won important victories in local option elections yesterday in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Springfield, capital of Illinois, and Madison, capital of Wisconsin, voted to banish saloons. Duluth, Minn., also went into the "dry" column.

In Illinois the "drys" won over ten townships, in addition to Springfield, and retained eleven townships already "dry," according to reports up to midnight.

Other Towns Oust Saloons.

As an incident to today's voting in this part of the state, Clear Lake township, in which is located Riverton, one of the most important mining centers in the coal belt, went dry by 318, cleaning out fourteen saloons in that municipality. Divernon, which was wet, remains wet by 40. Pawnee, which was dry, remains dry by 190.

The total unofficial vote in Springfield was:

Dry	10,791	Wet	10,333

The women rolled up a dry majority of 2,335. Their vote today was:

Dry	6,072	Wet	3,737

The men voted today as follows:

Dry	4,719	Wet	6,596

Springfield will be the largest dry city in Illinois. General surprise was expressed at the result.

New Fight for Dry State.

An immediate effect of the Springfield result is likely to be a revival of the state wide prohibition referendum bill in the general assembly. The vote that was taken last week was on the senate bill. The house bill still remains on third reading and is ready for a roll call. The report tonight, from well informed sources, is that the fight will be resumed tomorrow morning to force the passage of the house bill. If the

WILSON STAND DOOMS KAISER, LONDON VIEW

Joyful Surprise Among British Greets U. S. Step Toward War.

LONDON, April 3.—President Wilson's message aligning the United States with the nations fighting against Germany was warmly welcomed and unanimously acclaimed by the British people. They recognize that no decision with a weightier influence upon the result of the world struggle has been given since Great Britain, after a few days of consideration, resolved to march with France. No news of the last year except the Russian revolution has so stirred the country.

The substance and tone of the president's message was an electrifying surprise. The directness of his indictment of the German methods and his wholehearted statement of America's duty to maintain her rights and of her duty to civilization was more than the public here expected.

BEYOND EXPECTATIONS.

Dispatches from America in the last month had represented the president as so reluctant to enter the war that recommendations to congress limited to defensive measures for the protection of American commerce would have fulfilled the general expectations.

The only feature of President Wilson's message that evokes dissent is the acquittal of the German people from responsibility of the policies of the German government. Liberal papers, like the Daily Chronicle, contend that the German people have supported with apparent enthusiasm such proceedings as have been going on in Belgium and have demanded its annexation.

OFFICIALS RESERVE COMMENT.

The heads of the government consider that courtesy requires them to withhold comment until the American situation has developed further and the voice of congress has been heard. Premier Lloyd George will move a resolution in the house of commons as soon as he thinks it fitting. But the members registered their sentiments in applause when President Wilson's message was mentioned in the house of commons today.

The American colony is enthusiastic over the news.

The most intense interest centers upon the reception of the news by the Germans. It is considered questionable here whether the German papers will be permitted to print the text in full. An official has suggested that British airplanes could do more effective work in scattering the message behind the German lines than by dropping bombs.

VIEW IN ADMIRALTY CIRCLES.

President Wilson's speech has made a tremendous impression in admiralty circles. A naval official of high rank expressed the general feeling of the British navy on the president's declaration respecting the failure of armed neutrality. This naval officer says:

"The right of arming merchant vessels for defensive purposes dates back to times immemorial, and as a policy has never been disputed; the arming and using of merchant vessels for offensive purpose was an addition necessitated by the operations of German submarines, acting under the orders of the German war staff. There is no precedent that can be quoted or that can in any way compare with the brutality and savagry practiced by these so called sailors, who have ravaged and raped every tradition that naval historians have been so proud to hand down from generation to generation."

MOMENTOUS EVENT, SAYS PRESS

That the British press regards the entry of America as one of the most momentous events of the war is shown in the importance attached to President Wilson's address and the high tributes paid to the president's statesmanship.

The Daily Chronicle, giving its editorial on this subject the unusual honor of leaded type and double column breadth, with the caption, "America at War; Wilson's Magnificent Appeal," says:

"It is impossible to read President Wilson's speech without being struck by its statesmanlike breadth and elevation of tone. His long patience and caution, his determination to advance no faster than the mass of opinion in his country, only make more impressive his final crossing of the Rubicon. The moral effect of such a speech, made with a nation of 90,000,000 people behind it, must be great throughout the world."

"America is entering the war for the

LEAPS IN CAR ACROSS OPENING BASCULE BRIDGE

John H. McIlvaine of 112 Bellevue place made a leap for life in his automobile on the Randolph street bridge yesterday which rivaled the most sensational feats of circus daredevils.

He was driving west in Randolph street at a fast clip and dashed upon the jackknife bridge just as it was being raised. Caught as if in a trap, he realized that if he stopped he would roll back to death in the bridge well as the structure rose into the sky.

He put on full speed and raced up the incline, determined to take a chance in a leap across the gap between one side of the bridge and the other.

Dashing forward at dizzy speed he saw the gap widening. When he reached it it was five feet across, with the river fifty feet below. He bent low in his seat as his flying car leaped from the edge, shot through the air, and landed on the other side.

After this almost miraculous escape from death he expected to plunge into the bridge well and be killed. But by good luck his car rushed against the shore abutment and was wedged between it and the end of the bridge.

FIND HELEN SIMS WORKING IN CITY

High School Girl Held a Position as Nurse Maid.

Helen Sims, the 15 year old Lake View High school girl who disappeared Nov. 24, and who has been sought all over the United States, went home yesterday on the arm of her brother John—the brother who has run down every clew.

She was working as a nurse girl for a south side family.

Mrs. J. T. Kemp, 5354 Drexel boulevard, and her daughter, Marguerite, friends of the Sims family, were walking in Washington park. Miss Kemp called her mother's attention to the resemblance of a nurse leading two little children to Miss Sims.

How She Was Found.

The nursemaid overheard and turned away, but Mrs. Kemp followed and in a moment Helen Sims was sobbing her heart out on Mrs. Kemp's shoulder. Mrs. Kemp secured Helen's promise to come to her home in the evening, and then communicated with John and arranged with him that he should be there when his sister arrived.

Brother and sister met and between tears and kisses Helen told her story—not all of it, for she wouldn't tell the names of the people for whom she worked under a different name.

"I don't want them to know that I was a runaway girl," was the reason she would give.

Wanted Independence.

"No one had anything to do with my running away but myself," she said. "I wanted to be independent and support myself, and then I was afraid of my father because I had stayed the night before at Mrs. J. W. Stormes' house at 1525 North Kedvale avenue.

"I was on the street car when the thought to leave home first came to me. I saw an ad in a newspaper for a nurse girl and I went to the address and got the position. Then the first time I saw my picture in the paper I fainted and was sick for two weeks. The people I worked for took care of me, and when I was better they bought me clothes and were very good to me. In February they went south and wanted me to go with them, but I didn't want to leave Chicago. I worked a day in a laundry then, but I couldn't stand the work, and so I got another position as a nurse.

None Recognised Her.

"Nobody ever recognised me. I used to shiver every time I saw a policeman, because I knew they were looking for me. I used to get lonesome for the folks at home, but I made up my mind I wasn't going back.

"And then I read about Mary McGoorty, and wondered how she was getting on. I was glad when I read in the papers that she had been found, because I was afraid something might happen to her."

Helen is not going back to school; neither is she going to live with her father. Her brother had to promise her these things before she would return with him. She is going to live with her brother John and his wife at 5331 Kenmore avenue, and will support herself.

Out at 5331 Kenmore avenue Helen's little sister Frances celebrates her twelfth birthday today.

"John said he'd have Helen home for my birthday," she said gleefully, "and he ..."

THE GERMAN CRISIS

America's war program will be laid in concert with that of entente allies; conference arranged at which allies will advise U. S. officials.

President and department chiefs discuss preparation of navy and arrange for huge regular army.

Financial and industrial resources of America will be placed behind entente armies.

Berlin cable says Germany will not declare or wage war on United States, but will continue unrestricted submarine warfare.

Fourteen dead, one American, and 110 missing on three of four ships torpedoed without warning by German submarines.

Central powers sanction Austrian foreign minister's plan for peace conference without cessation of hostilities.

La Follette prevents senate action on war resolution. Will meet in continuous session today to force decision.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR

A series of powerfully organized points of support held by large German forces, eight miles in extent, have been captured by the French to the south of St. Quentin. Reims has been violently bombarded by more than 2,000 shells.

Henin-Sur-Cojeul, southeast of Arras, has been captured by the British. Maissemy, northwest of St. Quentin, and Ronssoy wood, further to the north, also have been occupied.

At several points along the front in Russia German attacks were repulsed.

ALLIED PLANS WILL BE GUIDE FOR AMERICA

Army, Navy, Financial and Industrial Forces to Be Used in Full.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, April 3, via London, April 4, 2:15 a. m.—The press report of President Wilson's "state of war" message reached Berlin at 10 o'clock this morning. It is declared here that there would be no change in the German attitude even if congress adopted President Wilson's views. Germany will not declare war nor take any step to wage war against the United States.

The submarine war will be continued as it has been conducted since Feb. 1, but this, declare the officials, is not directed more against the United States than any other neutral.

It also is declared that there will be no change in the treatment of American citizens in Germany, who now have the same freedom as all other neutrals. But Germany expects that the United States will continue the same treatment of Germans in that country.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—War, in complete harmony with the allies, for the sole purpose of crushing the German autocracy, is now the guiding principle of President Wilson's military program.

One of the first steps taken to assure the most effective participation of the United States in the conflict will be the institution of a conference between the American government and the Entente allies to map out a detailed plan of concerted action.

For this purpose an American commission probably will be sent to London and Paris to attend a grand conference of representatives of the allied governments on the new joint program.

WILL DECIDE EVERY ISSUE.

At this conference the American commissioners will learn whether the United States can be of greatest service by supplying men or munitions, or both, and will work out an understanding covering the employment of the American army and navy, industrial resources, and credit in helping the allies win the war.

The administration is giving extended consideration to the whole subject of coöperation with the allies, and the dispatch of a commission to Europe practically is determined. It is not unlikely that Col. E. M. House, the president's chief unofficial adviser, will be the chairman of this commission.

PREPARE ARMY AND NAVY.

Other developments of the day in the war situation were:

The navy department announced that, immediately upon the declaration of war by congress, it is prepared to coöperate with the allied navies on a program already partly drawn.

The war department completed plans to call for 450,000 volunteers to the regular army and national guard "for the duration of the war," and to raise an additional army of 500,000 men by the universal service system, thus bringing the land forces up to a total strength of 1,200,000 men.

The German merchantmen now warbound in American harbors may be seized and the question of compensating their owners after the war left to future determination in the light of American liability under treaty rights and international law.

CABINET DISCUSSES PROGRAM.

President Wilson and his cabinet discussed the war program, chiefly a number of pending proposals for extending vast credits to the allies and for bond issues and a taxation system for financing American military preparations.

The senate received a favorable report from its foreign relations committee on the resolution declaring a state of war with Germany and prepared to pass it tomorrow at a single sitting, if possible, with the house to follow suit immediately.

Work was begun in the house upon the espionage, censorship, and army and other appropriation bills which failed in the last congress.

MESSAGES PLEDGE SUPPORT.

The White House was inundated during the day with telegrams from all parts of the country congratulating the president upon his war message to congress. On every side there was evidence that the president's statement of the American case against the German government had thrilled the country and elicited widespread assurance of the support of a united country.

Critics of the policy of the president of long standing enthusiastically welcomed the leadership which Mr. Wilson at last gave evidence he intended to assert. From the tenor of the messages received and of public comment it is apparent that, if the president directs this newly manifested leadership toward making the nation strong and ready for its great mission, he will be accorded the ungrudging support of his sturdiest opponents in the past.

MESSAGE SENT BY HARVEY.

Only one of the congratulatory messages was made public at the White House. It was from George Harvey, the man who "discovered" Mr. Wilson, but afterward repudiated him and supported Mr. Hughes in the last campaign.

"A great message of patriotism, evidencing masterful leadership, based upon mutual faith of the president in his country and of the country in its president," Mr. Harvey said. "I was confident as one could be, but, even so, I was not prepared for so splendid a realisation. For the nation it is glorious; for patriots, inspiring; for the president, noble."

Every Detail Is Covered.

The discussion at the cabinet meeting covered the whole range of war measures—military and economic—but care was exercised by all the participants to say that no definite decisions would be made until congress passes the war resolution giving formal recognition to the state of belligerency.

Some progress already has been made toward achieving coöperation with the allies through exchanges of views between Washington and London and Paris. The British and French ambassadors here have been in almost daily consultation with Secretary of State Lansing on this matter.

Although it is necessary to withhold from publication the military plans of the government, it may be stated that as a result of the program of coöperation with the allies now under consideration it is possible that the American navy will be included in war operations of great moment within the next three months.

Moreover, the nation need not be surprised to learn within the next few months that American inventive genius has contributed the means of dealing a deadly blow to the military prowess of Germany. Although it is not possible to say more than this at present, it may be stated that the plans to this end are regarded as extraordinarily promising by the military authorities not only of the United States but of the allied governments.

BRITAIN, UNFIT, PAID HIGH FOR ITS WAR LESSON

Great Task of Equipping Recruits Parallel to U. S. Problem.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1917: By The Tribune Company.]

LONDON, April 3.—"A grave, though unavoidable handicap," is England's official characterization of her unpreparedness during the early part of the war as it regarded the most important details of clothing and footgear for her armies in training.

England admits these inadequacies now and permits an account of them to be transmitted to the United States in the hope that Uncle Sam may take heed and avoid the same handicap. Delays and discomforts resulting from shortages in such essentials will not have to be proven again to many militiamen who went weeks without underwear on the Mexican border or attempted infantry marches in makeshift boots with chemically treated unbendable soles.

It was not until after the war started that England appreciated the vital need of millions of uniforms, millions of pairs of boots, underclothing, and other necessaries for soldiers, and that stocks previously authorized were almost totally inadequate during the first few months of the war.

Stocks of Nation Exhausted.

The difficulties of clothing the men in training brought despair to both the civil and military authorities, who found the stocks of the country had been exhausted and machines, supplies of dyes, cloth, leather, and buttons could not be provided in the time desired.

It was found that few manufacturers had the requisite knowledge and plants for making numerous articles of military clothing and equipment according to regulation patterns, and an extensive reorganization of the manufacturing resources of the country was necessary before it was possible to meet the vastly increased demand.

The war office early admitted its inability to meet conditions and held itself responsible only for needs of expeditionary forces and new service battalions. So, of necessity, the clothing and equipment for the territorial forces and locally raised units had to be left to county associations and unrelated local bodies. It was inevitable that this uncoördinated system would result in costly competition between the war office and local bodies, but it did have the beneficial result of creating new sources of supply.

Seek Clothing Everywhere.

While a dozen or more manufacturers of khaki cloth who furnished the entire output before the war were being expanded to 200 many expedients were devised to meet the dilemma.

Clothing stores were stripped of stocks so that civilian attire could be issued to soldiers, and recruits who possessed serviceable clothing were ordered to wear it, and allowances were made for wear and tear. Emergency suits of blue cloth to the number of 400,000 were obtained from a coöperative society, and orders for entire outputs of underclothing were placed in America.

Deficiencies in army boots resulted in further initial makeshifs, civilian footwear of all kinds being brought into use for men the rough work of the training camps. England found still greater difficulties in the expansion of her army shoe factories from 25 to 350. The erection of new plants and instructions in methods of manufacturing boots with lasting power and of army pattern was slow and laborious.

Midwest Senators Back Wilson on War and Training for All

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Middle west senators as a rule gave the president's address on the war situation their hearty approval today.

One or two senators, notably those who opposed the armed ship resolution in the last congress, criticized the president.

"While I think the president has been shamefully negligent during the last two and one-half years in opposing universal service and other methods of preparing the country for the emergency it now faces, I believe he has risen to the occasion at last. I shall vote to declare a condition of war exists by reason of Germany's acts and I shall do all in my power to help prosecute the war to a successful finish."

For U. S. Every Time.

"I give my hearty approval to the president's message," Senator New of Indiana said. "I am for the government every time when it comes to differences between our own and some other country. I should have preferred a direct declaration of war to one merely recognizing that a state of war exists."

Senator Husting of Wisconsin, an independent Democrat, said:

"I consider the president's message as presenting the situation in incomparable form and so expressed that the whole country will rally around him. I am for prosecuting this war with Germany in the most effective way possible with the object of bringing it to a speedy end."

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, on the other hand, disapproves the address.

"I expect to speak on the subject," Senator La Follette said, "unless, as was the case in the armed neutrality debate, the right to speak is taken away from me."

Senator Johnson of South Dakota said:

"The message of the president strikes the right note and will solidify the American people. I believe in universal military training because it not only will aid our national defense but will make better men of our youth, both mentally and physically."

Best of State Papers.

"The message was the best state paper President Wilson has ever delivered," Senator Curtis of Kansas said. "In all its essentials I agree with him. I am for universal military training, and I believe it would be a great thing for the country."

Senator Cummins of Iowa said:

"I am opposed to war, but as I really have not made up my mind what I will do, I prefer not to discuss the subject now."

Senator Watson of Indiana approved the message.

"It sounded American," Senator Watson said. "As for the proposal to inaugurate universal military training, I give it my cordial approval."

SAY WILSON STAND DOOMS KAISER

one specific purpose of destroying Potsdam," the Express says. "If the president's speech means anything, it means that America will never treat with the kaiser and will resolutely oppose any peace that leaves the Hohenzollerns on the German throne."

Stands Beside Lincoln.

The Daily Mail, in an editorial under the caption of "No Peace with the Hohenzollerns," says:

"President Wilson's speech will stand beside Lincoln's greatest speeches for its gravity and pathos. It is in effect an appeal to the American people to take up the task for which Lincoln laid down his life, for the issue is today as it was in 1861 and 1864—freedom—though it would be a sovereign injustice to compare the south, whose soldiers fought like gentlemen, with the kaiser's murderous myrmidons. The president's speech is a plain warning that pirates shall hereafter hang in the execution dock under condemnation of the whole world."

The Times editorially views President Wilson's action as "an event which is certain to influence the destinies of mankind on both sides of the Atlantic for a generation to come."

Humanity's Voice.

The Daily News commenting on the tremendous shock that President Wilson's address is likely to produce in Germany and the immense value to the entente of having at their command the unrivaled inventive genius and industrial energies of the Americans, says:

"In this great utterance we seem to hear at least the authentic voice of humanity stating the issue, pronouncing judgment and awakening the conscience of the world to the mighty things at stake. Never in history have there been two such declarations as those recently made in Russia and Washington. Deed has answered to deed, and across the sundering ocean the democracy of America clasps hands with the democracy of Russia, freed at last from the gyves of centuries. By the light of this prodigious union we see the issue of the war emerge with grand simplicity of outline."

The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial describing President Wilson's address as a "new declaration of rights," says: "Never did the ruler of a state speak with greater dignity. We have been proud of the sacrifices we have made, but this nation and those associated with it will be prouder today in the knowledge of this latest noble vindication of the purpose of the allies."

Subdued Joy in Paris.

PARIS, April 3.—The Parisian population, which during the dramatic developments of the war have always maintained calm and dignity, learned today with great joy but without external demonstration of President Wilson's declaration to congress. The president's address was everywhere discussed, and in order to have more details the afternoon populace eagerly bought the editions of the newspapers. General contentment was expressed over the president's request that congress declare that a state of war with Germany exists.

Among the characteristic newspaper comment is that of the Temps, which says:

"It is a great date in the history of America, a great date in the history of humanity. The decision not to mix in the quarrels of Europe has dominated American policy for more than a century. German violence has been stronger than this will, and a new ally joins us.

"Despite the Monroe doctrine, despite immigration, and despite all sorts of ties binding the two nations, the aggressive policy of the Hohenzollerns has forced war on a people which was firmly decided to remain neutral."

Much Rejoicing in Rome.

ROME, April 3.—President Wilson's request to the American congress for war against Germany caused both relief and joy among the Americans here.

"Once more," an American artist said, "I can look foreigners in the face, because finally America has done her duty towards herself and humanity."

All of the young men declare they will return home and enlist in the army.

The evening papers warmly commend Mr. Wilson's demand. The Giornale Italia says:

Comment in South America.

BUENOS AIRES, April 3.—La Critica calls President Wilson's speech the equivalent of a new interpretation of international law and a new conception of the philosophy of history. It says that the president's words are the gravest and most just of any ever pronounced by an American chief executive.

"The American congress," it concludes, "will ratify this superb message and will range itself on the side of the defenders of civilization, to whom the message of Mr. Wilson will be the order to march."

El Diario Espanol says: "The resolution taken by the United States will not, for the present, modify the conditions of the struggle. The aid extended by the United States will be rather moral than effective, but the United States will prepare a big fleet and muster a large army, which will be a great danger for the other nations, especially those of South America."

PRESIDENT LAYS PLANS FOR ARMY OF 1,200,000

Depends on Volunteers, but Will Use Draft if Necessary.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The administration plans to raise a land force of 1,200,000 men for the war against Germany.

The plans do not call for the sending of a large force to Europe for many months. At the present time the country has less than 300,000 trained soldiers, and all of these will be needed to instruct the new men, protect the seacoast, and defend the Panama canal, the Hawaiian islands, and the Philippines.

The first step will be the increase of the regular army from 120,000 to 280,000 men, and the increase of the national guard from 150,000 to 444,000 men, the complete war strength of the army and the guard.

May Be Forced to Draft.

The administration hopes to obtain the increases through the volunteer system, but in event there are not sufficient volunteers the president may use the power given him in the Hay defense act to draft persons from 18 to 45 into the service.

While the volunteers are being obtained and organized the administration will seek to put a universal training law through congress.

The president's war address and his indorsement of universal training have already won a number of recruits for the principle of universal service. THE TRIBUNE correspondent today polled the senate and house military affairs committees on universal training and found a majority on each favor it.

Scheme to Register Eligibles.

A detailed scheme for the registration of eligibles in the event the volunteer system fails, has been worked out by the administration.

After married men, others with dependents and those whose service is required in industries have been exempted, others within the age limits fixed (said to be 18 to 23 years) will be examined physically, and those found fit will be selected, possibly by lot, until the first 500,000 to be trained are secured.

It is expected more than 500,000 available will be found in the first classification. Others will be trained as rapidly as possible by officers from the regular army, national guard, and officers' reserve corps.

Preliminary military steps possible under existing laws were added today to those already taken. They included direction by Secretary Baker that the first class at the West Point Military academy be graduated April 20, supplying 125 highly trained young officers.

YOUTH HANGS SELF TO RAFTER IN KENOSHA BARN

Cecil Wheaton, probably of Righton, Mich., hanged himself yesterday to a rafter in a barn at Kenosha, Wis. He left two notes. One was long, addressed "to whom it may concern." The other, much briefer, read: "To Mary B., the best girl and the most innocent girl in the world. I say I am no good—nor ever was."

Extracts from the other letter read:

"My mother suffered enough in this world and made for herself a place in heaven. My father, too, was the best father in the world—and yet I have done wrong.

"Fathers and mothers should watch these habits, for the city gets the best of any one with a weak will. My father gave me the best of advice, but he did not watch enough. If I had taken his advice it would not have been as bad as this—but I was a smart boy—knew it all. God knows me better."

NAVY OFFICIALS PUT FINISHING TOUCH ON WORK

Only Mobilization of Militia Reserve Remains.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—Only one big move in preparation for war remains to be made in the navy department.

That is the mobilization of the naval militia and the various classes of the naval reserve. The former will go to the reserve ships of the line, filling out skeleton crews and making the ships ready for action. From the latter will come the men for the coast patrol and submarine chaser services as well as additional men for line ships.

Probably 15,000 men could be added to the navy personnel at once by this mobilization. It has been estimated that double that number would be required for full patrol of the Atlantic coast by motorboat. It seems probable that unless sufficient volunteers respond promptly, the universal service system may be invoked to fill up the navy's ranks.

Money for Shipbuilding.

The $18,009,000 appropriated by congress to develop the constructing facilities of the United States navy yards will be expended at the earliest practicable date.

Of this amount $3,000,000 will be spent at the Brooklyn yard, $6,000,000 at the Philadelphia yard, where two slips will be built for the construction of capital ships; $5,000,000 at the Norfolk yard, and smaller amounts at Portsmouth, N. H.; Mare Island, Cal.; Puget Sound, Wash., and Charleston, S. C. The Portsmouth yard will be equipped to build ten submarines at one time.

For organizing the "mosquito fleet" of submarine chasers and light patrol craft for inshore work, $10,000,000 has been set apart for the use of Capt. Henry B. Wilson, who has been placed in charge of this work.

Work on Great Lakes.

Experts of the navy department are working on a program for shipbuilding in the great lakes district and a survey of its facilities is now being made. About 100 yards have already been examined.

LEGISLATURES LOYAL

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The Minnesota legislature adopted a resolution pledging its support to President Wilson and congress in the war crisis and calling upon the state's representatives and senators to sustain the president in his request that a state of war be declared to exist.

AUGUSTA, Me.—The legislature of Maine appropriated $1,000,000 for general defense purposes. This action was taken under suspension of rules immediately after the joint assembly had received a message from Gov. Milliken urging that the fund be provided by bond issue.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Both houses of the Florida legislature adopted a resolution pledging the support of the state in the present crisis.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Resolutions expressing the thanks of Connecticut to President Wilson for "the splendid message" delivered by him to congress on the international situation.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Kentucky house of representatives unanimously adopted a resolution applauding the position taken by President Wilson in asking congress to declare that a state of war exists between the United States and Germany. It urges congress to "act upon his wise suggestions" and pledges to the nation the whole hearted support of the state.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The general assembly under suspension of rules unanimously adopted a resolution approving the patriotic address of the president and pledging to him the resources of the state in men and money for the service of the nation.

U. S. MUST RAISE THREE BILLIONS AS WAR CREDIT

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders, particularly members of the ways and means committee of the house, are looking for $3,000,000,000 additional revenue war credit for this government and the entente allies between now and Dec. 1.

This figure, it is believed, represents the minimum of what the country may expect to commit itself to by entering the war against Germany on the scale urged last night by President Wilson.

Program for Raising Credit.

So far as can be ascertained from talks with Democratic members of the ways and means committee, and in the light of President Wilson's suggestions, the program will include:

1. Provision for a bond issue of $3,000,000,000, part as a credit to the entente allies and the remainder for purposes of defensive preparations and the support of American naval and military forces.

2. Prevention of "inflation" warned against by the president through offering short term bonds in serials, part of the issue maturing at stated intervals after a certain length of time, probably by three years.

Increased Taxes Necessary.

3. Provisions for liquidation of the bonds at as early a date as possible through adequate sinking fund provisions to be cared for by greatly increased taxation—increased income and corporation taxes, and increases in the excess profits tax.

4. Gradual increase in import duties following recommendations of the newly named tariff board.

5. Provision for the protection of the purchasing power of credits both of this government and the entente allies through supervision of profits and virtual price fixing on the basis of cost plus a percentage of profit.

SENATE ACTION IS PREVENTED BY LA FOLLETTE

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—Although Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin blocked adoption of the war resolution in the senate today, its ultimate passage by both branches of congress within a few days is assured, probably by Friday.

The senate foreign relations committee got into action on the resolution early in the day, ordering it reported, with Senator Stone of Missouri chairman of the committee, alone in opposition to a vote of recommendation that it be adopted.

When efforts to pass it at once were made in the senate, Senator LaFollette insisted on his right under the rule to demand that it go over until tomorrow. Unyielding to argument and references to the momentous consequences involved, Senator LaFollette would not withdraw his objections and adjournment was ordered until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

House Awaits Senate.

House leaders probably will wait until the senate acts before undertaking to press the measure in the lower branch, confident of their power to pass it in a single day if necessary. Democratic members of the foreign affairs committee met informally today and will confer tomorrow with holdover Republican members.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader, and Senator Martin, Democratic leader, issued a joint appeal tonight to every senator to be in his seat at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning prepared to remain in continuous session until the war resolution is passed.

Text of the Resolution.

The resolution as finally drafted by the foreign relations committee and submitted to the senate, is as follows:

"Joint resolution declaring that a state of war exists between the Imperial German government and the government and the people of the United States and making provisions to prosecute the same.

"Whereas, the imperial government has committed repeated acts of war against the government and the people of the United States of America; therefore be it

"Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives in congress assembled, that the state of war between the United States and the imperial government, which has been thrust upon the United States, is hereby formally declared and the president be and he is hereby authorized and directed to employ the entire naval and military forces of the United States and the resources of the government to carry on war against the imperial German government and to bring the conflict to a successful termination all of the resources of the country are hereby pledged by the congress of the United States."

Debate Heated at Times.

Senator La Follette began his obstructive tactics as soon as the senate met. When reports of committees were called for Senator Hitchcock asked unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

"I ask that the joint resolution go over for the day under the rule and object to the request for unanimous consent," Senator La Follette said.

"It is possible," Senator Hitchcock responded, "that the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. La Follette, objects to the present consideration of the resolution because the senate has not yet before it a printed copy of the bill presented. I will say to him that within five minutes a printed copy will be on the desk of each senator."

"I object!" La Follette responded. "I object to the present consideration of the resolution under the rule which requires it to go over for one day."

Objects to "Lecture."

"Of course," he said, "it is in the power of the senator from Wisconsin to carry this resolution over until tomorrow. I am sure he has had too much experience to make it necessary for me to allude to the momentuous consequences which are involved."

"Well," Senator La Follette replied, "I do not think it is quite in conformity with the practice of the senate to lecture a senator who asks for one day's time on a joint resolution of this importance, and I ask for the regular order."

"The senator is not justified in the remark he has made upon my undertaking to lecture the senator," Senator Martin retorted. "I had no idea of delivering a lecture to him. I have a right to call the attention of the senate and of the senator himself to the momentuous consequences involved in this joint resolution."

"It is unnecessary for the senator to call my attention to the momentous consequences of this resolution," was La Follette's rejoinder. I think I realize them quite as fully as he does. Again I ask for the regular order."

When Vice President Marshall said that the resolution must go over Senator Martin continued to hold the floor and remarked that he had a right to make some comment on the situation.

"I have asked for the regular order," La Follette reiterated heatedly, "and I demand a ruling."

The vice president then ruled and the resolution went over, whereupon Senator Martin moved that the senate adjourn.

Senator Sherman submitted in the senate today a copy of resolutions adopted by the Union League Club of Chicago, urging universal military service.

Helen Ketchum, Elizabeth Walters, Frances Burton, and Gertrude Jacobs, garbed in armor, toured the loop yesterday in a flag covered touring car and distributed enlistment literature. They were aids to Capt. F. R. Kenney, chief recruiting officer for the regular army of the Chicago district.

With them were Sergt. Antony Sonova, Corporal John T. Darcy, and Bugler Ernest E. Mull, U. S. A., as military escort. They drew an immense crowd of patriots in front of the Tribune building, thence sped to the busiest corners of the downtown district.

RALLY

Navy Recruiting Meeting to Be Held in Lincoln Park Yacht Basin.

A NAVY recruiting rally will be held on the shores of the yacht harbor in Lincoln park Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Navy league. It will be the first open air rally in the recruiting campaign of army or navy. It will begin at 1 o'clock and continue until 6 and several hundred enlistments are expected.

The Coyote, the yacht turned over to the government by Sylvester Starling of Evanston and commissioned as a patrol boat, will be sent from the Great Lakes naval training station and will anchor in the harbor. It will appear in full war regalia with a new coat of gray paint and mounting guns. On board will be the naval station band, which will serenade the crowd with a concert from the deck.

Capt. W. A. Moffett, commandant of the training station, and George H. Lamberton, secretary of the Navy league, will speak. Other speakers remain to be selected.

A company of 150 seamen, accoutered for active service, will go through drills and maneuvers for the entertainment of the crowd. Then the jackies will strive to see which one can win the greatest number of recruits for Uncle Sam. They will come to Chicago by train and will march to the park.

MIDWEST BOYS FILL UP GAPS IN NAVY RANKS

One hundred and twenty applicants for enlistment were accepted tentatively or permanently by recruiting officers of the army, navy, and marine corps in Chicago yesterday. Approximately 300 men presented themselves for enlistment, but two-thirds failed to pass the physical tests.

A request for additional clerical help was sent to Washington by Capt. W. Brackett of the marine corps. Twenty-two of about 100 men who sought to enlist were accepted tentatively for service.

The showing of the army stations was less than on the previous day, due to the fact that instructions not to push the work of recruiting for a few days came to the headquarters here from the war department.

Navy Is Popular.

At the office of Lieut. L. M. Stevens, chief naval recruiting officer here, thirty-eight men were accepted. Details of petty officers and men from the Illinois naval reserve were on duty to assist in handling the applications. Five additional surgeons are expected today.

Lieut. Stevens will open the new recruiting substation at 619-21 South State street today. It will be in charge of Lieut. Meade.

Capt. W. A. Moffett, commanding the Great Lakes Naval Training station, issued orders for 1,000 additional tents to house the recruits who cannot be taken care of in the barracks and dormitories. About 600 tents are already in use. The new tents will provide accommodations for 2,500 recruits.

Leave for East.

Five hundred of the men in training at the station will leave on Saturday for points in the east.

Steps were taken to further provide protection for the training station. Sentinels and guards surround the reservation, and all naval machine guns in the Chicago district were ordered to the station by Capt. Moffett.

Sentinels are on duty at the various recruiting stations in Chicago, which are now open at all hours of the day for receiving applications for enlistment.

WILSON MESSAGE GREAT DOCUMENT, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Visits White House to Offer Praise—Wants to Lead Troops.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—Pronouncing President Wilson's war message one of the greatest documents in American history and offering to lead a fighting army division to Europe, Col. Theodore Roosevelt called at the White House this afternoon, but missed the president.

The visit was made between trains, Col. Roosevelt being en route to New York from Florida, and without the previous knowledge of the president, who had just gone to the executive offices to attend a cabinet meeting.

"The president's message," Col. Roosevelt said, "is a great state paper. It will rank in history among the state papers of which Americans in years to come will be proud. The question now rests with the people to see that we put into practice the policy the president has outlined and we should strike as hard, as soon, and as effectively as possible in an aggressive war against the government of Germany.

"We must send troops to the firing line with the utmost speed. Defensive warfare is hopeless. We must by a vigorous offensive win our right to have our voice count for civilization and justice when the time for peace arrives.

"I, of course, very earnestly hope to be allowed to raise a division for immediate service at the front. I will guarantee that no finer body of fighting men could be gathered together than those who will be in that division, but, of course, the type of men to whom I will appeal would only come forward if it is understood that the division will be sent at the earliest practical moment into the fighting line."

WOMEN, IMBUED BY WAR SPIRIT, OFFER SERVICES

New offers of assistance were received yesterday from scores of women at the recruiting station for the women's reserve at 60 East Madison street. The opening of congress and the president's message are thought partly responsible for an increased registration.

Mrs. Anna Goodnow of Green Bay road, Highland Park, offered her home for convalescent soldiers. She said that she and her husband had decided that it was probably the best thing they could do to help the country in the present crisis. Mrs. Goodnow expects to take a course in the care of the sick, so that she can care for those who may be sent to her.

Another unusual offer was made by Mrs. J. S. Tolson of 6139 South Park avenue. Mrs. Tolson will use her automobile as a taxicab, with herself as chauffeur. She will drive for four or five hours daily and turn the proceeds over to the Red Cross, extracting only money to pay for the cost of the gasoline.

Chicago women are not registering as heavy as the leaders in the women's reserve had hoped, and additional efforts are to be made to get more recruits. The activities in which women may participate vary widely. The committee in charge of recruiting today will include Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. E. W. Sims, Mrs. Rudolph Kellar, Mrs. John Kehoe, Mrs. A. Vere Martin, Mrs. Lillian Kennedy, and Mrs. Claude Hopkins.

The American Red Cross is asking for more volunteers in other branches than nursing and "first aid."

"PREPARE" DAY IN EVANSTON; SEEK RECRUITS

Today will be preparedness day in Evanston. A recruiting office will be opened in the office of Mayor Harry Pearsons in the city hall and efforts will be made to recruit an entire company for the First Illinois infantry. Pretty co-eds from Northwestern university will use their fascinations to gain recruits.

A patriotic parade will take place at night. It will be led by a battalion of the First infantry with the regimental band. Boy Scouts with a drum corps and citizens in automobiles will take part. An exhibition drill by the battalion will be given in Fountain square. Speeches will be made from the steps of the city hall and orators will urge recruiting in every moving picture theater in the town.

James A. Patten is in charge of the arrangements. He has guaranteed the expenses incident to taking the battalion of soldiers to Evanston. In charge of the recruiting in the mayor's office will be Lieut. Ray O. Staten and Lieut. H. O'Brien.

ENTENTE FORCES DRAWING CLOSER UPON ST. QUENTIN

British Advance North of Stronghold and French Gain to South.

BY ARTHUR DRAPER.

LONDON, April 3.—The Franco-British loop around St. Quentin was drawn tighter today when Nivelle's troops flung forward to the west and south of the city in a sustained offensive and captured enemy positions on a nine mile front from north of the Somme clear to the banks of the Oise.

The British were also active about St. Quentin and brought their forces into Maissemy, a few miles northwest of the town and directly overlooking the road to Cambrai. Farther north Ronssoy wood has been occupied by Gen. Haig's soldiers and just southwest of Arras the village of Henin-sur-Cojeul has been taken after what the official statement calls "prolonged fighting."

This links up with the six villages captured on this front yesterday, shatters the first defenses of the Hindenburg line on its right wing, and in places brings the British within eight and a half miles of Cambrai.

Battle in Great Blizzard.

Today's successful operations were undertaken in the face of a violent blizzard which raged throughout the night. The French advance had been prepared for several days by the intense fire in the Essigny-le-Grand-Benay region. The offensive contemplated progress along three main roads into St. Quentin and up several heights and the line of attack extended from north of Castres, through Essigny and Benay from L'Epine de Dallon as far as the Oise.

The Germans fought stubbornly in solidly organized points of support, but the French charges forced them out and back to a new line of trenches. Everywhere the French objectives were attained and Gen. Nivelle's victorious detachments now firmly hold L'Epine de Dallon and the villages of Dallon, Girfecourt, and Cerizy, as well as several heights south of Urvillers, due north of Benay.

Gain South of Aillette.

In the region of Vauxaillon also the French continue to press back Hindenburg's troops. Today French batteries dispersed German columns marching upon Laffaux, south of Neuville-sur-Margival, while French battalions dashed forward to the southwestward and captured the hamlet of Vauveny, as well as the foot of the ridge which rises north of it.

The British feeling out process north of Arras seems to have ceased for the time being, but today's war statement chronicles a successful raid last night opposite Arras itself.

Some confusion was caused by the appearance of a feminine pacifist in the street crowds. She passed out cards, urging men not to take arms in the common cause.

VIENNA MAY ASK PEACE TALK, BUT NO ARMISTICE

Central Powers O. K. Count Czernin's Program.

BERLIN, via London, April 3.—The proposal of Count von Czernin, Austrian foreign minister, that a peace conference be held by belligerents without requiring the cessation of hostilities, apparently represents the attitude of all the central governments.

Count Czernin's proposal was not only sanctioned by Austria and, her allies, but will shortly be formally approved at a conference of high personages at Berlin representing the four countries.

Parley Soon to Be Held.

LONDON, April 3.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger's article concerning the proposal of the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister that a peace conference be held by the belligerents, as reproduced by the Rheinische Westfalische Zeitung of Essen, a copy of which has been received here, says:

"The standpoint taken by the Berlin and Vienna governments is shared also, it need hardly be said, by the governing circles of Sofia and Constantinople, and will shortly be given fresh emphasis by a visit to Germany of a highly placed personage from the dual monarchy.

"'Should our enemies now show themselves unwilling to grasp this opportunity for preparing to end the bloodshed and for restoring peace to the peoples of Europe, they will act on their own responsibility. We are prepared to continue to hold out.'"

He Sees End of War.

Albert Ballin, leading figure in the German shipping industry, is quoted by the Boersen Zeitung of Berlin, says a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen, as declaring at a meeting of the Kosmos Steampship company at Hamburg, that he hoped to present a balance sheet on July 1 under "peace conditions."

A Reuter dispatch from Copenhagen says it is reported there that Herr Ballin, who is chief director of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, has ordered all captains of the line to be at Hamburg on July 1.

Not a Party to Peace.

COPENHAGEN, via London, April 3.—The connection of M. Stauning, minister without portfolio, with the recent communications between the German and Russian Socialists concerning peace does not signify that Danish official patronage was given the movement.

ALLIED SUCCESS TOLD IN DETAIL BY STATEMENTS

FRENCH FRONT

FRENCH.

PARIS, April 3.—East and west of the Somme, after violent artillery preparation, our troops attacked an enemy position, which extended north of the line of Castres, Essigny, and Benay, from L'Epine de Dallon as far as the Oise. Notwithstanding the stubborn resistance of the enemy, our troops everywhere reached their objective and occupied on a front of about eight miles a series of points of support, solidly organized and held by large forces. L'Epine de Dallon and the villages of Dallon, Giffecourt, and Cerizy and several heights south of Urvillers are in our power.

South of the Ailette river we continued to progress in the region of Laffaux, the southern and northeastern outskirts of which we hold.

Our troops likewise captured Vauveny and have taken foot on the ridge north of that hamlet. Our batteries took under their fire a German column marching in the direction of Laffaux mill.

The enemy violently bombarded the town of Reims, into which more than 2,000 shells were fired. Several civilians were killed. The cannonade was intermittent on the rest of the front.

DAY STATEMENT.

From the Somme to the Aisne there were intermittent artillery actions last night. Patrol encounters took place north and south of the Ailette. We captured six machine guns during the fighting yesterday in the region of Vauxaillon.

The artillery fighting continues with violence in the region of Butte Du Mesnil and Maisons de Champagne. In Alsace a German attack against one of our trenches in the sector of Seppois Le Haut was repulsed by our fire.

BRITISH.

LONDON, April 3.—In the course of a successful attack yesterday southeast of Arras, our troops, after prolonged fighting, carried the village of Henin-Sur-Cojeul, in addition to the villages already reported captured. During the evening a second German counter attack was broken up by our artillery. (The other villages, mentioned in Monday's official statement, were Doignies, Louverval, Noreuil, Longatte, Ecoust-St. Mein, and Croisilles).

Further south we also captured the village of Maissemy and occupied Ronssoy wood. We carried out a successful raid last night opposite Arras.

Two German airplanes were brought down by our gunfire yesterday, one of which fell in our lines. In air fights four German machines were brought down and two others were driven down damaged. Six of our machines are missing.

RUSSIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, April 3.—South of Illukst, on both sides of the Ponevesh railway line, the enemy, after artillery preparation, attacked our positions and penetrated our trenches. He was driven out at the point of the bayonet.

In the Chelvov-Volnin region, sixteen miles southeast of Vladimir-Volynski (Volhynia), after artillery preparation and mine thrower activity, the enemy attacked our positions and forced their way into our trenches. Some of the Germans were bayoneted and the remainder fled.

Minor enemy attacks in the region of Pustomyty, south of Volnin, also were beaten back.

ROUMANIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, April 3.—Roumanian front—There were scouting reconnaissances and reciprocal firing.

TURKISH FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, April 3.—Caucasus front—There is no change in the situation.

AVIATION.

On the Black sea on March 27, during a raid by our seaplanes on Derkas, one of them was hit by the enemy. The petrol tank being punctured, the machine was compelled to descend.

The aviators, Lieut. Sergeov and sub-Lieut. Tur, seeing a Turkish schooner, attacked it by opening machine gun fire. The crew thereupon left the schooner. Our aviators, having sunk their machine after taking from it the compass, machine gun, and valuable belongings, boarded the schooner and set sail for our shores. They encountered a heavy storm during their adventure, but arrived with the schooner at the Duarlidatch peninsula, west of Perekop, on Sunday. From this place our aviators returned to Sebastopol on a torpedo boat. The only provisions available on the schooner consisted of a few pieces of bread and a little fresh water.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, via London, April 3.—Artillery fighting in the mountainous areas was impended yesterday by heavy snowfalls, but in the Adige valley there was considerable activity. The enemy obtained several hits with shells in Ala, causing some damage. Our batteries replied effectively, shelling military buildings at Riva, Rovereto, and Villa Lagarina.

ADVANCE ON ST. QUENTIN

British and French troops are closing in with an enveloping movement on the important fortress and base of St. Quentin.

1—Maissemy, to the northwest of St. Quentin, was entered by the British yesterday.

2—The French advanced on a front of more than eight miles almost directly south of St. Quentin. Despite terrific German opposition they captured the whole line from Dallon, less than three miles from St. Quentin, south through Castres, Essigney, and Bernay to the Oise river.

The smaller map, illustrating the entire French front, shows the location of the entente drive (located on map by arrow).

One American Among the Lost—Four Ships Sunk by Submarines.

New York, April 3.—Fourteen known dead and 110 missing from three of four ships sunk by U-boats without warning during March was the report brought here today by survivors of the steamers Stanley, Trevose, and Ainwick Castle. The fourth craft was the Cannisaro. Its crew was landed at Falmouth, England.

Ninety-one of the missing were aboard the Trevose and Ainwick Castle and the other nineteen were on the Stanley.

Five members of the Stanley's crew were killed and two others, one an American, died of exposure in the open boats. Two of the crew of the Trevose were killed by the torpedo's explosion. Five persons from the Trevose and Ainwick Castle died of exposure.

Fifteen survivors from the Stanley were brought here today by the steamship Port Albany. Twenty-four from the Trevose and Ainwick Castle were landed by the Venesia.

Fired on Lifeboats.

According to the Stanley's survivors the craft was nearing the Irish coast, and as the men were taking to the boats the submarine fired on them and the ship with a deck gun. The men killed by the explosion of the torpedo were three engineers and two firemen.

Two boats were lowered. The one containing the captain and eighteen men drifted away from the boat which contained the men picked up by the Port Albany, and has not been heard of since.

The other drifted for seventy-six hours before being sighted by the Port Albany. They were all but exhausted from exposure. Two of their number, including the American, died, and more would have soon perished, officers said, had their rescue been longer delayed.

Rescue Boat Also Sunk.

The Trevose, a freighter, was sunk when twelve days out from Newcastle, England, with coal for Alexandria, Egypt.

In their boats the crew drifted until night, when the Ainwick Castle appeared. They had been on this vessel only twelve hours when it was torpedoed by an unseen U-boat.

The Ainwick Castle was 200 miles at sea when disaster came at 6:30 a. m. The persons aboard included the Trevose's twenty-five survivors and among the Ainwick's passengers were one woman and her three months old child. The other woman on board was the stewardess.

"All of our six boats were launched," reads a statement by Capt. Chave of the Ainwick Castle, "and the ship sank in twenty-five minutes. The submarine emerged from the sea among the boats and watched the vessel founder slowly by the head and then went off after another steamship."

Boats Become Separated.

All that day the boats kept together, Capt. Chave said, but during the night they became separated.

Gales disabled the rudder on the captain's boat and blew away the sail and mast. Constant labor, shortage of water, and lack of sleep, together with bitterly cold winds, caused some of the men to become delirious.

The hands and feet of the barely living men were swollen to twice their normal size, Capt. Chave said.

At 1 p. m. on March 28, the Venesia hove into view. The men in the life boat were too exhausted to aid in their own rescue.

Virginia Man on Stanley.

Newport News, Va., April 3.—Frank Burns, a white fireman of Newport News, was the only American on the British steamer Stanley, according to available British shipping records here.

Still Missing from Astec.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—A dispatch from Ambassador Sharp dated yesterday, said nineteen survivors from the Astec were landed in the afternoon at Brest and twenty-eight persons still were missing and their rescue was doubtful because of the heavy sea and storm.

Ambassador Sharp later cabled that Capt. O'Brien of the Astec and Lieut. Gresham, who commanded the guard of twelve bluejackets, arrived at Paris.

Voters in British Election Swamp Peace Advocates

LONDON, April 3.—Frederick Pethick Lawrence, joint editor of Votes for Women, and well known as an ardent supporter of woman suffrage, standing for election to the house of commons on a "peace by negotiation" platform, today polled only 333 votes, while his opponent, Sir John Fleming, the coalition candidate, received 3,283. The balloting took place in a by-election for the seat for South Aberdeen.

Whitlock and His Party Are Safe in Switzerland

Taft Predicts War's End Within the Present Year

New York, April 3.—Former President Taft, speaking at a dinner here tonight, given in his honor, asked:

"When will the war end? I hope and pray in a year. The loyalty of the people to the emperor has been most marvelous, but no matter how loyal they are, when Germany loses its military prowess, then the hardships through which they are going, accompanied by the Russian revolution, may topple him over. If so, the war will be won in less than a year."

French to Fix Wheat Price.

PARIS, April 3.—The chamber of deputies today adopted a measure authorizing the government by decree to fix the price on wheat and other grain. The chamber also adopted unanimously a bill authorizing the use of saccharine as a substitute for sugar in baking or preserving.

RAIL OFFICIALS UNITE TO AID U. S. GOVERNMENT

Officials of the railroads of the country are exerting every effort in order to cooperate with the government to insure the movement of troops and supplies to any part of the country where they may become necessary. Government trains will be given the preference over all other traffic. Extreme precaution is being exercised in order that the plans for moving troops and supplies, together with the routes over which they will travel, shall not become known to anybody but those in whose charge they will be placed.

It was announced yesterday that the meeting of the special committee on national defense of the American Railway association, which was to have been held in Chicago today, has been postponed until April 9.

The meeting will be attended by representatives of all the territorial passenger associations of the country, and final details for placing the facilities of the roads at the command of the government will be completed. Routing charts will be mapped out, showing the most direct routes between any points in the United States to which it might become necessary to move troops and supplies.

"SPIES IN OFFICE" TRAIL FOLLOWED TO HIGH PLACES

Washington, D. C., April 3.—The significance of President Wilson's warning of German spies "even in our offices of government" became apparent today when it was learned that on several occasions trails of the German secret service have been discovered within some of the most closely guarded precincts of the executive departments.

Although officials do not believe that access has been gained by the foreign agents to any information of great importance, they are understood to be convinced that not even the state department, with its highly confidential diplomatic facilities, has been free from invasion.

No evidence on which prosecutions can be based has been found, it is said, but enough has been revealed to prompt a sweeping official investigation and precautions which the department believes will safeguard its interests more adequately in the future.

President James, Illinois, Offers Services to Wilson

ELECTION PUTS 20 NEW FACES IN CITY COUNCIL

Leaves Gas Rate and Other Issues to Untried Figures.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Spectators at the inauguration of the new city council will see one of the biggest changes ever made in the municipal legislative body in an "off year." Twenty of the present aldermen—more than one-fourth of the total membership—will be replaced.

Such a sweeping shift means altering the complexion of the working machinery of the council—its standing committees. The retirement of twenty men leaves more than sixty vacant committeeships and because of the seniority and standing of some of those who leave many of those vacancies come in the important committees.

Of the incoming aldermen only four have had council experience. Those four are Ahern, Kunz, Fick and Hazen, who, with the exception of Hazen, were not given major committeeships in their former terms and probably will not be now. The other sixteen are new men not familiar with municipal problems.

Five Aldermen Didn't Run.

Five of the present aldermen were not candidates for renomination in the primaries. They were De Priest, who is under indictment; Martin, elected to congress; Lawley, elected to the drainage board; Utpatel, and Kjellander, who was elected Superior court clerk.

The primaries retired seven men. They were Werner, Merriam, whose candidacy was continued nevertheless; Zwiefka, Geiger, Kearns, and Buck. The election retired eight. They were Tyden, Vanderbilt, Anderson, Sitts, Miller, Gandt, Blaha, and Janke. Ten of these men were considered extremely valuable members of the council.

To fill the places of those ten the voters have named Iliff, Fetzer, Woodhull, Maypole, Kaindl, McCormick, Steffen, Long, and Clark, who have been considered good council timber. Many of the others are unknown quantities. Upon their official conduct depends the comparison whether the incoming council is much weaker than the present body.

Difficult Jobs to Fill.

Inspection of the committee lists shows vacancies that will be difficult to fill. On finance there are the places of Merriam, Lawley, Sitts, Geiger, and Kearns. On local transportation there are the memberships of Vanderbilt, Utpatel, Geiger, and Kjellander. On gas, oil, and electric light there are the vacancies of Chairman Sitts and of Merriam, Lawley, Utpatel, Zwiefka, and Buck.

Similar holes have been torn in other committee rolls. But on the three committees named depends the management of the city's financial affairs, the settlement of the gas rate question, and the solving of the city's traction problem.

One more example will suffice. The election leaves McCormick the only member of the license committee who is not "dripping wet."

Chance for Navy Deserter to Repair His Offense

Parents of the 19 year old boy who left the United States naval training station on March 4 are anxious that he make good. They asked THE TRIBUNE yesterday to help locate him. The boy will be reinstated after a mild punishment for absence without leave, if he returns at once. Commander Moffett told the boy's parents, who live in Lincoln, Ill. The boy is asked to communicate with his parents or grandparents at 3960 Evans avenue, St. Louis.

FOUR WINNERS

Victorious Candidates in Seventh, Twenty-third, Third, Twenty-first Wards.

WILLIAM R. FETZER. GEORGE F. ILIFF.

WALTER P. STEFFEN. ROBERT H. McCORMICK.

DEMOCRATS WIN COUNCIL, SMASH CITY HALL TICKET

Johnson's victory came to him after years of persistent running for alderman in this ward on the Socialist ticket. In 1914 he received 2,226 votes; in 1915, 1,267, and last year, when they had a union labor strike in the ward, he ran it up to 3,893, but was nosed out by Ald. Block. Yesterday he finally ran his total up to 4,428, as against 4,277 for Vanderbilt, his nearest rival.

The Socialists themselves were surprised in this ward, but they met with a great disappointment in the Fifteenth ward, where they thought they had the situation nailed down for J. Louis Engdahl. The Sullivan forces, however, won handily with E. J. Kaindl with a lead of 1,653. Roberts, the Republican candidate, was third.

Reform Downs Grogan.

Besides their victory in the Twenty-first ward the reform forces triumphed in the Eighteenth, burying "Barney" Grogan with a plurality of 3,118 votes, and in the Third ward, where they elected Iliff, the Democrat, over Mayor Thompson's candidate, Patterson, with a plurality of 1,037.

The attempt to defeat Ald. Alexander A. McCormick in the Sixth proved abortive, and the result gave much rejoicing in that section to the anti-city hall forces.

After one of the bitterest fights in the history of the ward the Buck-Clow coalition finally was downed in the Thirty-third, where Irwin R. Hazen, the city hall candidate, triumphed over Delta I. Jarrett on the face of the police returns with a plurality of 224.

Merriam's Vote in Seventh.

While going down to defeat in the Seventh ward supporters of Ald. Merriam found consolation in the size of his vote, which had to be written on the ballot. At the same time the Fetzer people described the victory as clear-cut, inasmuch as Mr. Fetzer received not only a plurality of the vote, but a majority of all the votes tabulated, and a majority of both the men and women vote.

The total vote cast for Marriam, as returned on the police records, was 8,504, as against 11,478 for Fetzer.

Vote in Seventh.

The vote on all the candidates in this ward was:

	Men.	Women.	Total.
Fetzer	7,019	4,459	11,478
Merriam	4,062	3,842	8,504
Flannagan	1,240	507	1,747
Caulfield	272	87	359
Total of all opposition	6,174	4,436	10,610
Majority over all	845	23	868

Places Hard to Fill.

In their victory the Democrats bowled over some men whose places in the council, leaders insist, will be hard to fill. One of these was Ald. Lewis D. Sitts of the Seventeenth ward, chairman of the committee on gas, oil, and electric lights, which is just finishing up the settlement of the gas question and the establishing of the new rates. Stanley Adamkiewicz, on the face of the police returns, won over Sitts with the lead of 83, the smallest plurality chalked by any of the successful candidates.

But while the slaughter was extensive, some of the experienced men in the old council dodged the executioners. Ald. Wallace winning handily in the Twenty-third, with his running mate for the short term, Walter Steffen, the football star. Ald. Capitan in the Twenty-fifth, chairman of the local transportation committee, also comes back strong for an off year, with a lead of 3,257, and Ald. Lipps in the adjoining ward is safe with a lead over Fred Dunham of 815.

Ald. Littler, after a tough fight in the Twenty-eighth, is back with a margin of 652 votes, while Ald. Hrubec piled up a long lead—2,462—and the pioneer Fisher in the Thirty-second ward had a record breaking plurality of 4,706.

The Thirtieth, Thirty-fourth, and Thirty-fifth wards were riveted down more securely than ever by the Roger Sullivan forces. Lynch in the Thirtieth has 2,870 to the good, while Kostner swept the Thirty-fourth with a plurality of 3,801 and John S. Clark snowed under Ald. Janke with a lead of 4,613.

J. A. Long, carrying the Sullivan colors, triumphed over Smoke Inspector W. H. Reid and the city hall forces in the Thirty-first ward, the home ward of former Gov. Deneen, with a lead of 581 over David Roller.

City Hall Holds Second Ward.

The city hall forces held their one unshakable citadel—the Second ward—winning with Louis B. Anderson, Negro, an assistant corporation counsel. He was placed in the field after Ald. De Priest was forced to get out, following the crusade aimed at the ward and the "black belt" by State's Attorney Hoyne.

The "wet" leaders joined the Democrats in rejoicing late at night after the returns were sufficiently complete to indicate the proportions of the Democratic landslide.

Wets Full of Glee.

They said the turning of the large Thompson majority of two years ago—approximately 150,000—into a rout of his forces and the swinging of the council into the Democratic fold by an almost two-thirds control, was the answer of the people to the closing of the saloons on Sunday.

Mr. Sullivan said that it was not attributed to any one thing, so much as the demonstration that Chicago is a Democratic city, has returned to the fold after following "false idols," and is now dusting up and getting ready to elect a Democratic city administration in 1919.

Senator Clark's plurality in the Thirteenth district was 2,149. It was the Seventh ward, too, that saved him. Berg, the Democratic candidate, who was nominated by writing his name on the primary ballot, carrying both the Eighth and Ninth wards. Seymour Stedman, the Socialist candidate, ran third. The vote was:

Clark ..... 9,475 | Stedman 6,036
Berg 7,326

Possible contests in both the Seventeenth and the Thirty-third wards were discussed at night. Sitts' defeat by only 83 votes, some of the leaders thought, might be turned into a victory, if the ballots were recounted.

WAR LESSONS USED BY WOMEN IN 'SAVING WARD'

Feminine Members of the Navy League Work Hard in the Twenty-first.

A flash of command from headquarters of the offices of the women's section of the Navy league, and all the preparedness measures adopted and in full swing in the work of "saving our country" were channeled into the work of "saving the ward."

A number of the young women who have been taking lessons in emergency motoring in preparation for need of it in war time aped about the Twenty-first ward all day yesterday carrying voters to and fro, to pile up votes for R. H. McCormick, Republican candidate for alderman of the ward that is bounded on the east by the "gold coast" and on the west by a thoroughfare of far different social rating.

In a dozen automobiles "manned" by society girls who drive their own cars, the dilatory and invalid voters were called for and deposited at their precinct polling places and later carried home in safety—all this by those of the volunteer workers of the women's motor corps of the Navy league. Miss Catherine Channon, Miss Marjorie Pierce, Miss Steever, and Miss Meyers were among the swiftest at answering the summons, and piled up a huge record of McCormick voters before the morning was over.

The calls for help came from the headquarters of the Women's Nonpartisan league at 1450 North Clark street, where the workers were Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. John W. Beckwith, Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, Miss Elizabeth Goodrich, and Mrs. Wisteria Ford.

They Still Need $6.60 for That Invalid's Chair

It will cost $40 to buy James Norton, 7456 Parnell avenue, a wheel chair, with the aid of which he will be able to go out on the streets for the first time in twenty-three years. In response to the appeal printed in THE TRIBUNE on March 29, $33.40 has already been contributed. The first to give were: Mrs. J. B. Farquhar, $5; Mr. C. Van Laten, $5; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips, $5; employés of the Farquhar Moon company, $3.40; Mrs. James Kilpatrick, $2. Yesterday's mail contained contributions of $13. These included $5 from L. W. Hoffman and $1 from 12 year old Catherine Blakely of South Bend, Ind., who writes: "I am sending you the last dollar of my Christmas spending money to help buy that wheel chair for Mr. Norton." The remainder of the contributors were anonymous.

Mr. Norton, who is now in destitute circumstances, hopes to be able to earn a moderate living as soon as he can leave his room. He now tries to support himself by mending shoes, although he cannot afford many necessary tools.

—Stephen Decatur.

THE TASK BEFORE US.

A new era has begun, not only for the United States but for the world. Criticism of Mr. Wilson's past actions and words is stopped by his address to congress.

The United States can stand behind that address and the man who made it if he will fulfill the promise of his speech by acts.

The days of doubt and of indecision are over. The days of action are here. The tremendous task of waging war under modern conditions is now before us. The struggle to which the president has summoned us cannot be half hearted. There must be a complete devotion of ourselves and all we possess to the accomplishment of Germany's defeat. This, indeed, as THE TRIBUNE has been preaching for months, is the only course we can afford to pursue. Since we have entered the war let us fight with all our might to a finish. We may reserve our magnanimity to the day when our opponents are defeated. Meanwhile we must fight with all our resources for victory.

This means two things. First the rendering promptly of all possible material assistance to our allies, second the most expeditious development of our own naval and military resources.

The former involves certain economic and financial problems which will be discussed at another time. That of increasing the food supply is one of the chief. That of war finance is another. That of adjusting labor conditions and protecting the wage earner in his earnings and conditions of labor is another. All of these problems can be solved only by the exercise of patriotic self-sacrifice. We are sure they will be solved.

Of our naval and military measures the paramount need is the establishment of universal service. The president in indorsing universal liability to service has done more to insure his place in history as a great peacemaker than by any other act. When America has an army of half a million or more of its young men with its reserves of similarly trained men behind it ready for call from civil life, America will not only be secure on her own shores, she will be a greater influence for peace throughout the world than she has been or could hope to be in her present weakness. But even before any consideration of peace is now the duty of war. A universal service army is necessary. The president has summoned the nation to a great task. The people are ready. Will congress lag? What man in either house, senator or representative, New Englander, southerner, man of the middle west or of the mountains of the Pacific coast, will place himself in the way of this urgent need? Every man in congress ought to know, for it has been proved not only in the past but in our own time, that the volunteer system is a deception, a fallacy, a trap. It is unjust and inefficient and extravagant in its cost in blood and money.

There is no excuse for resorting to the volunteer system after the lessons of our experience and that of England's. The member of congress who votes for it convicts himself of inexcusable ignorance or of ulterior motive. The member who opposes the establishment of universal service when the nation has entered the world war votes for sending the nation to battle with a broken sword.

TO RICH YOUNG MEN.

Rich young men who fail to enlist for this war will yield to a weakness that will follow them all their lives.

This is a war in which victory means the extinction of autocracy throughout the world, while defeat means the destruction of our liberties. It is a war as ennobling as the war of the revolution or the war against rebellion. It furnishes an opportunity for ennobling sacrifice such as inspired the crusaders.

It is now an accepted axiom of war that the actual combatants should be young men who have not yet incurred the responsibility of supporting a family, and for this reason THE TRIBUNE has led the movement for universal service of the youngest men who, because of their very youth, have not incurred family obligations nor have become important in the industrial field.

In addition to the broad stratum of 21, upon whom families are not dependent for support nor does industry lean for skilled labor or direction, are the rich young men in the 20s and early 30s. These men are more free to serve than poor boys of 21, because in the case of permanent injury they are assured of a comfortable future, and the time spent in the army cannot even be said to interfere with their starting in private careers.

The rich of Chicago have not an especially good war record. Many of our greatest fortunes were founded by stay-at-homes while nobler souls were fighting for the union. The muster rolls of the Spanish war contain hardly a well known name. The Mexican mobilization of last summer saw a small outpouring of the well to do, but one insignificant compared with the enlistments of the less fortunate.

Enlistments so far for this war have been disappointing, but most disappointing have been the failure of the young rich men to respond. Unless a start is made, and made soon, we must look forward to white feathers as cotillon favors.

EXTRAVAGANCE WILL BE A CRIME.

Nations make war now as whole peoples. It touches everybody. It demands something of everybody. The Germans are not only on the strictest food regimen, which in some instances produces a malnutrition near starvation, but they are living by a strict clothing allotment. A person may have four pairs of stockings and men may not have cuffs on their trousers.

The English are plowing their fields by artificial light at night, trying by heroic intensity of agriculture to escape from the submarine blockade. The British have meatless days. French of all conditions have suffered. The war is a general agony.

The United States is entering this war, bound to its outcome and in part responsible for the shaping of that outcome. It will ask of the United States the same Spartan fortitude and self-denial it has asked of other nations.

Extravagance will become a national crime, thrift a national necessity. A dollar spent unnecessarily in the United States after the declaration of war will be a reproach to the spender. Ostentatious waste will be scandalous indifference to the needs of the nation.

We are about to enter upon destructive processes which eat up the resources to conserve the constructive processes of the nation. In self-respecting lives this will make a change in the mode of living.

Luxury will become obnoxious to right thinking. Extravagant buying will be odious. The man or woman who is self-indulgent will be parasitic.

The nation will need its money. It will be offended and hurt by waste of money. Extravagance will be hideous. Self-respecting Americans will cut their expenditures to the bone.

OFFICERS

Raising an adequate army will be less difficult than obtaining competent officers.

The question of officering the American armies has always been a hard one and never has been successfully accomplished. In Washington's day commissions were given perforce to men who raised companies and regiments irrespective of the military skill or experience of these men.

The volunteers of the Indian wars were very generally frontiersmen who understood the details of bushwhacking warfare, who chose their own leaders and, incidentally, chose when to obey and when to disobey them.

To these methods of selecting officers the appointment by political pull was elaborately added in the Mexican and civil wars, so that we have fastened upon the country a symposium of all the bad ways to commission officers of trained troops.

The functions of officers are twofold. In the first place, they instruct their troops in the art of war; in the second, direct them in battle. Evidently officers themselves uninstructed cannot instruct others, and much less can they direct others upon the battlefield.

War will find us almost without educated officers. We have some 6,000 commissioned officers in the regular army, but that is 1,400 less than are needed to command the regular army at its present strength. If an army of a million men is to be raised many regular officers now serving with troops will be imperatively needed for the enormous staff which must be improvised, leaving a still greater deficit of officers in the regular army. So far from being able to lend officers, the regular army must itself borrow.

The national guard affords several thousand civilians holding the commissions of the governors of the several states. The military knowledge of these officers varies from zero all the way to the degree of knowledge which is necessary for regimental officers. There is also a so-called "Officers' reserve corps" of the volunteer army, but in this appointments have been made at random, there being on the lists many men who have had not even the training of a militia private soldier.

Throughout the country hither and yon are ex-army officers, ex-militia officers, and former officers of other armies, not attached to any military organization, whose abilities are not known to any of those who will be in responsibility in army organization. They must be discovered.

In a war with Germany we will meet for the first time in our national history first class troops. We cannot oppose them with the third and fourth class methods we have always used. If we send forth regiments under officers elected by their men, or by officers who have raised companies and regiments, or by officers appointed through political pull either through the states or the officers' reserve corps, we will make disaster inevitable.

At this late date in face of terrible calamity we cannot make any mistakes. We must take all our belated steps in the right direction.

For the education of the 50,000 indispensable officers schools must be opened. Even in this crisis we must bend our energies primarily on the training of officers. Even good troops, if the officers be incompetent and untrained, will be of no avail against a first class enemy army.

VIOLENT PACIFISTS.

It is recognized that many pacifists are persons of sincerity and intellectual conviction, but we fear they are not in the majority. Most of the pacifists are violent egotists, enraged by a counter to their opinions, prone to wrath and quick with opprobrium and insult.

Senator Lodge, not a pacifist, tried to make a peaceable getaway from an annoying outfit of meddlers who in the name of peace appeared in Washington. The argument had to come to punched noses.

The professional pacifist is the most obnoxious of all disputants. He will offend more conventions and laws for the polite ordering of society than any militarist. Usually he lacks all sense of self-restraint and all consideration for others. He presents all the elements which make violent controversy, provokes quarrels, and needs force for settlement. We insist that if the pacifist sentiment governed mankind there would be nothing but war. It is the most intolerant sentiment known to man and the most provocative.

WISCONSIN PRESS ON UNIVERSAL SERVICE

WHAT SHOULD BE DONE.

[From the Green Bay Gazette.]

If President Wilson gives his support to the universal training bill, or to the principle on which it is drafted, it will make the now nation-wide movement for this change irresistible. In fact, it should make it possible to enact the law even before congress adjourns, and that obviously is what should be done.

MAKE NATION SECURE.

[From the Milwaukee Sentinel.]

With an adequate navy and a "citizenry trained to the use of arms," this nation will be secure against foreign aggression, sure of having its rights respected, reasonably sure of that permission from armed states and militant governments to pursue the paths of peace unmolested, which it certainly has not been enjoying for the last two years.

CANNOT BE NEGLECTED.

[From the Oshkosh Northwestern.]

It will serve to center public attention on the very vital question of providing better military preparedness, a thing that too long has been neglected, yet which no longer can be neglected with impunity.

EMINENTLY JUST.

[From the Algoma Record.]

The universal military training law is eminently just. There is no good reason why one mother's son should volunteer, sacrifice his time, health, and perhaps his life, to protect the property and life of another mother's son.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Motto: How to the Line, Let the quips fall where they may.

WE might understand a pacifist if he talked something like this: "Why the excitement? What's the odds? I have lived and loved, haven't you? I have heard all the best music, and Brahms is dead. And the country is going bone-dry. Why should I get into a patriotic frenzy?"

[From the Rocky Mountain News.]

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Faust of Colorado Springs came up yesterday for the grand opera.

IS there a psychoanalyst in the audience? We dipped into another new book, "Man's Unconscious Conflict," by Wilfrid Lay (Dodd, Mead & Co.), and picked up a few new ideas about the Œdipus and Electra complexes, the Unconscious and the Fore-conscious, and so forth. What we'd like to ask a psychoanalyst is this: Why, if the Unconscious is an oubliette in which experience is buried—why does our Unconscious persist in giving up an unimportant incident of eight or nine years ago? Why, with nothing to suggest it, do we suddenly visualize a Standard Oil depot near Eleventh and Hudson streets, New York City, and our purchase of a four-burner kerosene stove?

THE psychoanalyst would probably reply that he would have to study us a couple weeks before he could answer the question. He might have the time, but we haven't.

WANTED, ONE WIFE.

[From the Livingston, Mont., Enterprise.]

Big green dodgers bearing the words "Wife Wanted" were distributed in Livingston streets, business houses and homes yesterday by George T. Mankin, formerly a Park county rancher, in an effort to obtain a fair wife for himself. His handbill is as follows:

"The conversation of two ladies caused me to advertise for a wife. While walking up Main street from Miles & Bro.'s livery and feed stable the other day I overtook two ladies who were walking very slowly. I heard one say to the other, 'Let us each hunt up an old bachelor.' The reply was, 'Nine out of ten of them are too stingy to feed themselves.'

"I am standing in the tenth line, and am a little humpshouldered; 54 years old. Wife preferred must have a good sized foot. Sharp toes and sharp heels not wanted. A man told me not long ago that his wife was always kicking. He did not say which way she kicked—up in front like a man, or back behind like a horse. A lightweight will be wanted. The time to prepare for war is in the time of peace. Ladies interested in my ad should start early. You know what they say about the early bird as well as I do.

"GEORGE T. MANKIN, the Fool of Our Family."

WE had drawn up at the curb on Mich. Boul., and observing a rather seedy gentleman approaching, we felt in our change pocket for the conventional dime. He checked us with a gesture of gentle deprecation. "I merely wished to tell you," said he, "that Gallup & Gallup and Trotter & Trotter are liverymen in North Dakota and Minnesota, respectively."

NAME YOUR PRICE.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.

(Joseph Rodman Drake.)

When Freedom, from her mountain height,
Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there!
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies,
And striped its pure celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then, from his mansion in the sun,
She called her eagle-bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land.

Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high!
When speaks the signal trumpet tone,
And the long line comes gleaming on,
Ere yet the life-blood, warm and wet,
Has dimmed the glistening bayonet,
Each soldier's eye shall brightly turn
To where thy sky-born glories burn,
And, as his springing steps advance,
Catch war and vengeance from the glance.

Flag of the free heart's hope and home,
By angel hands to valor given,
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome,
And all thy hues were born in heaven.
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us,
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet,

A LINE FROM MONTANA.

Sir: The ordinary, every-day sort of patriotism, not manifested by sporadic outbursts, or wearing a little flag on the coat, exists in the Rockies (not rookies) country, and is taken as a matter of course. Come out and talk to some of the boys who spent their summer in Mexico and were kept from enjoying themselves by the restrictions imposed by eastern politicians. This is a part of these U. S. A., the same as Madison street, and Monroe, and Jackson. And you will find that the same people who had the nerve to vote their state dry, and to send Miss Rankin to Washington, will help the east, when help is needed. This is the distinction you intended to have the reader infer, is it not? I thought so, and thank you for the implied compliment to the west.

IGNORANCE OF THE CLASSICS.

Sir: Why do you and your m. or l. gentle readers insist on saying, "Why the hell!" and "Who the hell!" The definitive particle grates on the purist ear. Will you not join me in a reform movement, purifying our expressions to "Why in hell!" and "Whom hell!"? DAD GASSEDIT.

WHAT THE LIVER DOES.

THE liver is the largest gland in the body. It is so conspicuous that anatomists and physiologists began to write about it in the dark ages. Much of the medical speculation of those ages revolved around the liver. Some of these theories and notions prevail now.

The functions of the liver are six:

1. The secretion of bile.
2. The formation of glycogen—a step in the utilization of starches and sugars by the body.
3. The formation of urea—a step in the utilization of protein or lean meat by the body and also a step in ridding the body of an excess of protein taken as food.
4. Protecting the body against poisons absorbed from the intestines.
5. Breaking down the used and worn red blood cells.
6. Formation of a ferment to promote clotting of the blood.

The secretion of bile is important but this is not the most important work of the liver, for the bile, while an aid to digestion and absorption of the food, is not so important from that standpoint as is the pancreatic juice, for instance. The bile is made in part from bile absorbed from the intestines, for nature is not wasteful. She uses over and over again materials that are still usable, only throwing away the materials that are past regeneration. To the reabsorbed bile addition is made of materials taken by the liver from the blood. The functions of the bile are to assist in the absorption of fat, to promote peristalsis of the intestines and to retard putrefaction.

Of the six functions of the liver other than the secretion of bile, the three of greatest importance are those having to do with the use of starch and sugar, the use of lean meat and the protection of the body against poisons. Glycogen is a substance related to glucose. When there is an excess of glucose in the system some of the excess is converted into glycogen and stored.

Many only know ures as a product of kidney excretion. It is in the sense that the kidney separates it out of the blood. Its formation occurs elsewhere in the body.

The result of putrefaction in the large intestine is the production of highly poisonous compounds. In the liver these poisons are converted into harmless substances, which are then excreted by the kidneys. Indican is one of these. A hog can eat snake poison with impunity, though the same poison injected under the skin does harm. The liver is the organ which absorbs such poisons from the blood which flows from the intestines and, having absorbed them, destroys them.

SLEEP OUTDOORS.

P. W. writes: "Do you consider it harmful for a person whose physical condition is a little below par to sleep out of doors in zero weather, provided he is able to keep warm and comfortable?"

REPLY.

It is beneficial.

CONTINUE TREATMENT.

Mrs. J. F. T. writes: "I was taken sick Feb. 1, 1917, with a sore throat, which turned out to be diphtheria. After injection of thirty units of antitoxin I was removed to the city hospital for the contagious on Feb. 6, from where I was released Feb. 16. Since then my throat is paralyzed. I have dimculty in swallowing, and when I drink the liquid comes out through my nose. My eyes also are affected so that I am not able to read or do any needle work. I am being treated by a doctor. He is giving me pills which contain strychnine, but it seems to me they are not doing me any good. For the last ten days my fingers on both hands have been numb. My tongue was the same way, but is better now."

REPLY.

Paralysis of the throat muscles is a frequent effect of diphtheria. Probably the numbness of your fingers and tongue is also due to diphtheric neuritis. Keep up the treatment you are taking. Diphtheria paralysis is generally recovered from.

NOT GOING INSANE.

J. de F. writes: "My brother is in his 40's. For the last ten or fifteen years he has fancied he had different ailments and would go to different doctors without any satisfaction. For the last three years he fancied he had a cancer of the stomach, but after a complete diagnosis by a specialist he was found to have a slight stomach trouble. The doctor said it was mostly mind, and he dwelt too much on his imaginary ills. Then he complained of a pain in his heels and a soreness of the abdomen. Apparently there is nothing the matter with him, so at least six doctors have told me. He has taken up the so-called religious cures, but lapses to the doctors again. Right now he is in a state of irritability and wonder whether his mind is being affected. What would be your opinion in this case? He is well built, has a good color, but does not sleep well. I have taken him to various so-called cures without any apparent results."

REPLY.

Your brother is a neurasthenic. He is not going insane nor will he. Be as patient with him as you can and help him to train himself into better mental habits.

SHOES AND SWEATY FEET.

A. H. H. writes: "I noticed the inquiry of J. P. requesting a cure for sores and perspiration of the feet. After fifty years of observation as a shoemaker and dealer, I find in 75 per cent of the complaints of this kind the cause is wearing rubber shoes or boots, or shoes made of cordovan leather, which is waterproof and sold as such. Cordovan is a durable and nice looking leather, but to perspiring feet a rank poison."

REPLY.

I am told there is little cordovan leather on the market. Your list should include patent leather shoes.

ALL RIGHT TO HOIST FEET.

G. M. writes: "My daughter was told by her doctor in a hospital after a severe operation and when she was able to sit on a chair, that if she did not keep her feet on the floor she would not recover her strength. Is this correct? My wife points to this to deter me from putting my feet on a chair or other means of elevating them, which has been my desire and habit for many years. I ask if there be any reason for discontinuing this, even if I am just recovering from sickness?"

REPLY.

The advice may have been based upon something connected with the operation. The advice has no bearing on your case. Your health will be equally good either way. Pardon me for not interfering further. I am a man of discretion.

RAISING OF AMERICAN FLAG OVER DANISH WEST INDIES

BY GEORGE HINMAN JR.
(Special Cable to Chicago Tribune.)

[Copyright: 1917: By The Tribune Company.]

ST. THOMAS, March 31, via San Juan, April 3.—In an atmosphere surcharged with international complications and impending war against a nation whose citizens dominate the economic life of the new colony, the United States this afternoon took formal possession of the Danish West Indies.

As the American flag shot up the flag staff in front of the old Danish barracks, the German consular flag came down from the German consulate nearby.

There was little inspiration in the ceremony itself, but the setting made it intensely impressive. The only American naval vessel in the harbor was the transport Hancock, which had been rushed from Guantanamo under orders which had been received only four days ago. Denmark was represented by the old style cruiser Valkyrie, the commander of which has been acting as governor of the islands since the recall of the anti-American civil governor following the signing of the treaty by which the United States purchased the islands last summer.

At St. Croix, the largest island of the group, was the American cruiser Olympic, the roar of whose guns at Manila bay a score of years earlier announced the opening of the era of American imperialism.

It is the morning of the greatest day in St. Thomas' history. On one side of the harbor lane are two interned German ships with the Danish flag fluttering from their foremasts. On the other side are three American freighters which are blacklisted by the British government and which are suspected of bearing hidden gold and supplies for the German raiders in the south Atlantic.

A few hundred yards from shore is an American ship engaged in West Indian trade. It is discharging its cargo. By a strange coincidence, it bears the name of the ill fated transatlantic ship, the Marina, which was torpedoed by a German submarine.

The Hancock lies carefully placed across the harbor entrance to control all movements of shipping.

The air in St. Thomas is tense. Nobody knows anything of what the immediate future will bring. Commander Pollock of the Hancock is in constant communication with Washington, but even at the American consulate it is not known at what time the formal transfer will take place.

Finally, shortly after 10 o'clock, it is announced that the ceremony will be held at 4. The stores close at noon, and by 3 the crowd begins to gather before the barracks. The Marina continues to discharge its cargo and on board the German ships there is no sign of life.

Seven bells—half past three—strikes aboard the Valkyrie and two small boats leave the Danish man of war. One bears a small braas band and some sailors and the other carries the commander, now the acting governor.

A few minutes later two large boats laden with sailors and marines leave the side of the Hancock. There is a lull and then suddenly a puff of smoke floats from the side of the Valkyrie and a few seconds later the roar of the gun reached the shore. Then the American flag is raised on the foremast of the ship.

Again the air is shattered, as fifteen guns are fired from the Danish warship, while Commander Pollock and his staff leave the Hancock for the shore, where they are welcomed by the Danish officials, and all enter the barracks and sign the protocol for the transfer of the islands.

Then they take their places with the marines and sailors in the great hollow square formed by the crowds watching the ceremony. The commander in a short sentence proclaims the islands transferred by Denmark to the United States.

All of the troops present arms, the diminutive band plays the Danish national air, and the banner of the red field and white cross of Denmark is lowered from the flagstaff.

There is a painful silence, and then Commander Pollock reads the formal proclamation of President Wilson taking over the island in the name of the United States.

The troops again present arms and the stars and stripes dart up the staff as the American band plays the "Star Spangled Banner."

"Stand up, you fellows," comes faintly across the waters of the harbor from the direction of the Marina. It is one of the ship's officers trying to get a show of patriotism out of the Negro stevedores squatted about on deck and on the surrounding lighters.

As the flag goes up in front of the barracks other American flags are raised throughout the city, and with German preciseness the commanders of the interned ships raise the American flag on their foremasts, thus indicating they are in an American port.

The German flag over the consulate, which remained blowing in the breeze even after the Danish flag had been lowered, floated slowly to the earth as the first notes of the "Star Spangled Banner" were sounded.

Thus the Danish West Indies, strategically the best potential naval base in the Caribbean sea, became in reality the property of the United States of America.

OPHTHALMIA NEONATORUM.

Chicago, March 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In a recent issue you state there is a law requiring all cases of sore eyes in babies less than 2 weeks old to be reported to the health department within six hours after the appearance of the first symptoms. Is there any law which requires that a doctor use a 1 per cent solution of nitrate of silver in babies' eyes at birth? What punishment is there when a doctor fails to report a case of sore eyes to the local board of health? When a baby gets sore eyes through the neglect of a doctor can his license be revoked by the state board of health? C. T. P.

Referring to inquiry about legal requirements in relation to ophthalmia of young babies, I beg to advise you as follows

The law requires all cases of inflammation, swelling, or redness in either or both eyes of infants occurring within two weeks of birth to be reported within six hours by any physician, midwife, nurse, parent, or assistant noting same, or having reasonable opportunity to observe the condition. Reports to be in writing or telephoned, followed by writing, to local health authority.

The bill (house bill No. 582) as introduced by Mr. Thon, required all physicians and midwifes to advise (prescribe and employ) for the prevention of opthalmia neonatorum such prophylactic as shall be prescribed by the state board of health and to inform the parent or guardian of the child as to the dangers and dire consequences of this disease. The law as passed and approved June 24, 1915, omitted the words "prescribe and employ" and gave permission to midwives to employ the prophylactic, provided the consent of the parent or guardian shall first be obtained.

The state board of health furnishes free nitrate of silver, 1 per cent solution, in individual doses, but physicians are only required to advise its use.

Penalty for violating any provision of the act is a fine of $10 to $100 in the discretion of the court.

The state board of health may revoke licenses of physicians on conviction of unprofessional or dishonorable conduct.

JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

PRAIRIE AVENUE ASSESSMENTS.

Chicago, March 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The estimated cost for paving Prairie avenue from Fifty-fifth street to Sixty-first street was $213 for each frontage of 25 feet. My neighbor, by joining with certain other property owners, and filing a protest, was given a reduction of $40. Being absent from the city at the time the contest was filed and not being able to join the other property owners am compelled to pay the full amount of the estimated cost, $213, for the same paving my neighbors have to pay only $173. Please advise if there is any justice in such an action. ANXIOUS.

All property similarly situated and benefited alike was originally assessed the same amount, but the court, acting upon certain evidence produced at the trial, ordered certain reductions. M. J. FARRELL,
President Board of Local Improvements.

CONDITION WILL BE REMEDIED.

Chicago, March 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Along about the middle of October, 1916, the ash man removed our ashes. Since then he has been conspicuous by his absence and an amount large enough to almost block the alley to traffic, has accumulated. R. F. LANGE.

2913 West Division street.

The condition complained of is caused by cinders from a six flat building, steam heated, being placed in the alley. The owner of same has been notified to remove them without delay. W. J. GALLIGAN,
Assistant Superintendent of Streets.

PORTABLES WILL BE USED.

Chicago, March 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—When is a school building to be erected in the neighborhood of Kimball and Wilson avenues and what will be its location? READER.

The board of education owns a ten acre tract bounded by Kimball, Wilson, Leland and St. Louis. The board of education has not decided the particular location of the new building that will be erected there during the next two or three years. No doubt the location will be somewhere near the center of the tract, leaving the space surrounding for athletic fields. JOHN D. SHOOP, Superintendent of Schools.

DEPENDS ON DEED.

Aurora, Ill., March 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have a farm in Virginia. It stands in my name and my wife's name. She died three years ago. I have a boy 15 years old. I would like to sell the farm now, but I was told I could not sell it until the boy was 21 years old. Is this so?

J. HAYDN, 222 North Fourth street.

Probably right. Would depend on circumstances, nature of deed showing title is you and your wife, etc.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WHY MEN DON'T ENLIST.

Chicago, March 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As a member of the national guard, and expecting to be called out soon, one thing I dread about going into a mobilization camp is the lack of provision in the way of sufficient bed covering for the cold nights. When my regiment returned from Texas last fall and, while waiting a month in Springfield to be mustered out we suffered severely from the cold.

We wore the same cotton clothing we wore in Texas, no extra blankets were issued to us, and bed sacks were not to be had. Most of the boys slept in their uniforms. We were permitted to install makeshift stoves constructed from such material as old milk cans, wash boilers, etc., procured from the city dump. The fuel was wood picked up from along the roadside. These stoves in most cases were "fearfully and wonderfully made" and permitted the escape of gases calculated to severely irritate the bronchial passages. It was a choice of being frozen or asphyxiated.

If such treatment is part of the hardening process, from my observation it certainly does not make for efficiency.

AN I. N. G. GOAT.

STICK IT ON POSTERITY.

Cicero, Ill., March 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—"The proper method of raising war funds is by bonds," says Mr. Reynolds. It would be rather difficult to saddle all war expenses on the poor of this generation; by all means let us put it on the sugar and shoe nails of our great-grandchildren. Why should we even pay the interest? Let us double and quadruple the billions of debt as an especial favor to posterity. Verily, our union bosses and financiers pull their patriotism from the same barrel.

JAMES CUTLER.

WHY POLAND FELL.

Chicago, April 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I cannot refrain from congratulating THE TRIBUNE on the splendid editorial which appeared last Saturday entitled "Universal Service." Your comparison of the free and voluntary military service with free and voluntary taxation is to the point and shows the folly of it. All THE TRIBUNE editorials on that subject, as well as those that relate to preparedness, deserve the highest commendation. THE TRIBUNE deserves great credit and gratitude for educating the public and bringing it to realize the danger that the country is in. Why did Poland fall? Because the Poles also believed in voluntary military service and were not prepared. The Poles were pacifists and they were deluded into the belief that as they coveted no territory of their neighbor their neighbors would not covet theirs. How they were deceived in this they learned to their sorrow when it was too late. The tragic end of Poland's independence and the subsequent sufferings of her people forced upon them by her greedy and unscrupulous neighbors who took advantage of Poland's weakness are too well known. This ought to be a valuable lesson to us. Let THE TRIBUNE keep up its splendid work of education.

N. L. PIOTROWSKI.

LOYALTY KNOWS NO DIVISION.

Chicago, March 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The extraordinary editorial of March 26 cannot fail to elicit violent protest from all Americans to whom America is first. I refer, of course, to the editorial entitled "German-Americans." Your pity for these poor creatures with their "now naturally exaggerated susceptibilities," must excite a smile, and would excite contempt were not your policy of "straddling" all issues so well known. But if these German-Americans are real Americans, your pity is not needed, even though they be forced to fight in the European trenches against their "German brothers."

In our own civil war did not brother fight against brother? True Americans are not torn between "two sincere and honorable devotions" to such an extent that they cannot determine which is the truer and more honorable devotion. If the devotions appear to them equally true and equally honorable, then they are not true Americans. No true loyalty can ever be divided. And the fact that these people have a divided loyalty simply shows that they have no right to be called Americans. They should be excused not only from the necessity of serving in the European trenches but also from the necessity of voting or exercising the other prerogatives of American citizenship. They should cease to be considered Americans.

GEORGE H. LUTZENBACK.

WORK FOR PHYSICIANS.

Chicago, March 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It seems fitting to me as a physician that the medical profession should be willing to watch over the families of the boys in the army while the men are in the government service and an illness care for them free of charge, thus compensating patriotism with patriotism.

I am willing to do my share, and I would give me great pleasure also to assist in the organization of physicians in our city who are pledged to watch over and care for these families in case of sickness free of charge, during the absence of those on whom they are dependent. This, I feel, is a duty which I, as an American, owe to my country and to my city.

CHAS. A. SIMMONS, M. D.

SUSTAINED THE REPUTATION.

Chicago, March 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As a cartoonist Mr. Orr certainly sustained the reputation given him in THE TRIBUNE'S announcement of his engagement as a member of its staff. His daily cartoons, from the first one, the defiant hand holding aloft the submarine, have been wonderfully forceful in conception and fine as to drawing and finish. His brilliant work justifies the hope that he may permanently appear on the first page of THE TRIBUNE.

AUTO GUNMEN TERRORIZE AND MURDER IN 18TH

Fast and furious was the aldermanic battle in the Eighteenth ward yesterday between Barney Grogan, Democrat, and John J. Touhy, independent.

Many automobiles filled with men prepared to "bust things up" roved about the streets of the Eighteenth ward.

The only election murder occurred in the morning when William Basket, a Negro, who wore a Barney Grogan badge, was shot by an unknown man who was in one of the "wrecking crew" autos. Sergt. Edward Carey o fthe Lake street police seized the man who did the shooting and was taking him to the patrol box, and two other "wrecking crews" came along.

Six men attacked the sergeant. He was knocked down and kicked in the face. The accused man was lifted into one of the machines. When the policeman regained his feet he fired six shots at the fleeing autos. About twenty shots were fired at him in return.

The name of the man accused of the murder is said to be "Bennie" Applequist, a teamster, also known as "Red."

Shortly after the shooting seven men, wearing badges of Barney Grogan raced through Washington boulevard in a machine which later proved to be Grogan's own car. Two motorcycle policemen after an exciting chase which led to the loop halted the car. Five of those in the machine escaped. Grogan's chauffeur, William Wade, and the other man were arrested. Two revolvers were found in the car.

CALLS VOTERS' INDEPENDENCE FEATURE OF DAY

Head of Municipal Voters' League Comments on Election.

When the election results were announced last night F. B. Johnstone, president of the Municipal Voters' league, made a statement, in which he said:

"The feature of the election was the independence of the voters—their ability, notwithstanding the overshadowing importance of the issue at Washington, to discriminate between aldermanic candidates.

"Mayor Thompson's spoils politicians in February beat the excellent Ald. Werner with Patterson in the Third ward, only to go down to defeat today at the hands of the voters of all parties, who elected Iliff, the Democrat.

"The defeat of the honest and reliable James A. Kearns by Roller in February was avenged today.

"In February the Thompson-Snow-Lundin crowd torpedoed Ald. Merriam, and then on technical grounds succeeded in throwing out the independent petition filed by his friends. Today nearly 10,000 men and women in that ward paid Merriam the unprecedented tribute of writing in his name on the ballot. Obviously, had his independent petition been sustained he would have been swept back into office by a record plurality."

Mr. Johnstone congratulates the voters on the election of R. H. McCormick in the Twenty-first and John J. Touhy in the Eighteenth, and on the reelection of Ald. Kennedy, Capitain, Littler, Kerner, Lipps, Hrubec, Fisher, Klaus, and Wallace.

Ashcroft Praises Voters Who Wrote "Merriam" on Ticket.

RAYMOND M. ASHCRAFT, chairman of the Independent Voters' league of the Seventh ward, which has been supporting the candidacy of Charles E. Merriam for alderman, last night issued the following statement:

"Over 8,000 voters have registered their protests against the attacks made on Mr. Merriam. The appreciation of his services as shown by these voters has been unprecedented in the political history of Chicago. Mr. Merriam's friends have conceded his defeat from the time he was counted out in the primary election. Needless to say we are delighted with the enormous vote cast for Merriam in spite of the fact that his name was not on the ballot."

FRAUD FOUND IN FEW SPOTS DURING BALLOT

Hundreds of investigators were busy yesterday looking for fraud, particularly in the Eighteenth and Twenty-first wards. Coupled with the rioting, charges of illegal voting freely were bandied back and forth in the Eighteenth.

State's Attorney Hoyne, however, said at night he had received no complaints of any consequence. Arthur Burrage Farwell had the surprise of his life when his investigators reported there was little fraudulent voting in the First ward.

In the Eighteenth ward the election board had almost 100 investigators on the job. State's Attorney Hoyne and the Citizens' association had as many more.

MAINE TOWNSHIP REMAINS "DRY"; NORTHFIELD WET

Edison Park, Desplaines, and Park Ridge Temperance Folk Win.

Wet and dry township elections in Lake and Cook counties yesterday made slight changes in the liquor map.

In Maine township, which includes Desplaines, Park Ridge, and Edison Park, the drys again triumphed, polling 1,998 to 797 by the wets. Forty per cent of the male vote favored saloons, but only 15 per cent of the women thought likewise.

Roadhouses Triumph.

The four precincts of Northfield township, made famous by the House that Jack Built and other roadhouses, voted to remain saloon territory by 824 votes to 433. The wets declared that the women's vote alone was enough to make the township wet. The township includes the villages of Glen View and Schermerville.

Wauconda township, in Lake county, which includes Volo and Wauconda, switched from the wet to the dry column by eighteen votes and Wauconda residents declared last night that the fame of Lake Wauconda as a summer resort will wane. On the other hand Vernon township, containing the village of Half Day, went wet after three years of prohibition.

Many of the suburban towns will vote on the wet and dry question April 17.

Want Nation in Training.

Plans to make the United States "bone dry" in the next sixty days as a war measure or to force a prohibition amendment to the constitution within six months were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league in Washington. In Chicago F. Scott McBride, the league's Illinois superintendent, said: "War will precipitate national prohibition with the swiftness of a cataclysm."

Mayor Kiel of St. Louis Re-elected; Loyalty Issue

St. Louis, Mo., April 3.—Mayor Henry W. Kiel, Republican, was reëlected here today by a majority approximated at 20,000.

The Democrats made Americanism an issue in their campaign, condemning the Republican city organization for omitting a loyalty plank in their platform. Mayor Kiel replied to this criticism by proclaiming his unqualified Americanism and loyalty.

house acts affirmatively there is no question but that the ultra dry senate will concur.

The psychological effect on members of the legislature, as they arrive tonight to visualize the practical effect of a dry Springfield within thirty days, is held by conservative drys as likely to be of the utmost importance in aiding the passage of the state wide referendum proposition. Today's result follows a spectacular campaign that was initiated by William Jennings Bryan, Richmond P. Hobson, and other distinguished platform speakers for the dry cause have participated in the argument.

Madison Goes Dry.

Madison, Wis., April 3.—[Special.]—The capital city of Wisconsin and seat of the state university today voted against licensing saloons after July 1 next by a majority of 401. The total vote against license was 4,556 and for license 4,155. This is the first time Madison has voted dry since it was founded seventy years ago.

Kenosha, the largest city in Wisconsin voting on the license question, today voted to retain saloons by a majority of more than 1,200 votes. Every ward in the city, with the exception of the "silk stocking" Second, voted in favor of license. It had been the hardest campaign ever known in the city.

Superior, second largest city in the state, returned to the "wet" column after a year of prohibition.

Janet's father was a gate-keeper —she a stenographer at the mills. But she was bigger than her origin or surroundings. So big that Ditmar the great mill owner thought that he could not live without her. So big she knew that even marriage to such a man was not the real solution to her problem—the problem that thousands of intelligent business women are facing today.

What is that problem? What is its answer? This is the theme of the "Dwelling Place of Light" the biggest story that Winston Churchill, America's biggest serious novelist, has yet written. You will not want to miss the story, or the answer.

J. Rufus Wallingford—Blacky Daw—Cordelia Blossom—and now comes the "Lady in Distress" the new heroine of George Randolph Chester and his gifted wife.

She is from the South—a young slip of a girl—a serpent and a dove and a fuzzy little kitten all rolled into one.

The causes of her distress are many—dreams—uncles—sudden wealth—a disposition that would get any girl into trouble and get any girl out again—and others.

If you like action, emotion, humor all working together overtime, get acquainted with little Miss Linnett Merridell, the Lady in Distress, in the April Hearst's.

Frederick Dayton, who had taken honors at Harvard in both scholarship and athletics, had never paid any attention to women because he had never had any time.

But when he took a vacation trip around the world, his personality combined with his innocence made many women pay particular attention to him.

"His Daughter" by Gouverneur Morris is fundamentally a study of how and why a young man falls in love. This is surely material for a brilliant and fascinating story. In Mr. Morris's skilled hands it becomes one of the most entertaining pieces of fiction that has appeared in any magazine in a long time. Be sure and read "His Daughter."

Suppose you suddenly saw a notice of your own death. It is an official announcement so detailed and convincing that for everybody, even your friends and family, you are dead—as long as you wish.

You are absolutely free—from all ties—associations—all your past. You can begin life over again—any way—in any place—yet go back to your old life when you wish.

What would you do?

Into this situation mix a baffling murder mystery—a strange case of dual identity—take London and New York Society for a setting—add the imagination and skill of E. Phillips Oppenheim as author.

What's the result?—read the "Cinema Murder" and see.

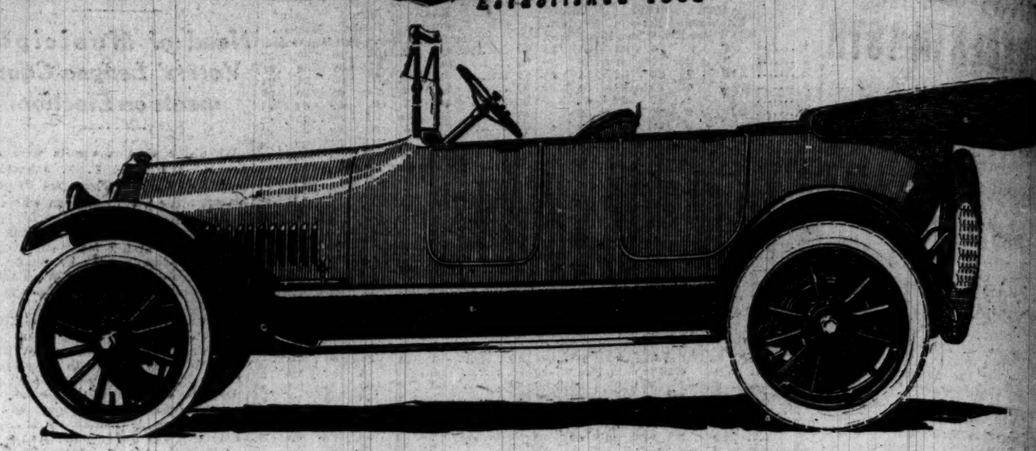
Studebaker
Established 1852



Why Your Next Car Should Be a Studebaker

IN THE FIRST PLACE, you will be SURE of its performance, for every Studebaker Car carries a 12-months' guarantee, a flat one-year assurance, in addition to the convincing world-wide guarantee of quality that is given by the name STUDEBAKER itself.

In the second place, you will have a car of PROVED quality. For Studebaker quality — the result of Studebaker policy, Studebaker manufacturing resources and Studebaker engineering knowledge—is known all over the world.

The improvements, the many refinements of design, the practical perfection both of design and workmanship achieved by the continuous study of one basic Studebaker design in the hands of nearly 300,000 Studebaker owners in this country and abroad, have all combined to make the SERIES 18 Studebaker Car the one great VALUE car of the year.

The third reason why your next car should be a Studebaker is economy. From the standpoint of economy—what it costs to own and to run a car—Studebaker is, in the judgment of hundreds of thousands of people, the best buy on the market.

Its splendid quality insures lasting durability—and back of this lies the distinctive Studebaker ONE-YEAR guarantee. Its perfection of design insures GREAT power at the lowest possible consumption of gasoline—and back of this in the car itself there is built-in economy, the result of years of close study of a great army of Studebaker cars performing under every conceivable kind of service.

There is also to consider the actual saving of from $300 to $500 on the initial price, as compared with any other cars of equal quality—a saving made possible by the growing popularity of Studebaker cars and the resultant volume of manufacture.

And the extreme simplicity and accessibility of every feature of the Studebaker design reduce to the minimum the necessity for inspection, adjustments and visits to the garage mechanic.

Brief Details of Some of the Special Studebaker Features That Characterize Both the FOUR and the SIX

Power 40 horsepower in the FOUR, 50 horsepower in the SIX—and not merely "claimed horsepower" but actual developed, usable road horsepower—such masterful power makes Studebaker cars unique in their price range. In ratio of horsepower to gasoline consumed, Studebaker is the most powerful car on the 1917 market. And only years of practical experience, years spent in watching the performance of Studebaker cars on every kind of road, have made this giant, yet economical power possible.

Comfort Both Studebaker Four and Six give far more room than the average touring car. Studebaker offers a scientific perfection of cushion work that, combined with remarkable chassis balance and unusually resiliept springs, make Studebaker cars unrivalled in riding-comfort and ease on long continued tours as well as on short trips. The Studebaker cars, both the Four and the Six, are big, capacious 7-passenger cars, but do not weigh more than the average 5-passenger car which means gasoline and TIRE economy as well. Studebaker front seats can be instantly adjusted to fit your particular needs. The right hand front seat of Studebaker cars is instantly and easily reversed—its occupant may face the tonneau at will. Both Four and Six are fitted with auxiliary chairs that make them comfortable and capacious seven-passenger cars. When not in use they fold up and stow away under the rear seat—there are no unsightly gashes in the carpet or recesses in the front seats.

Roadability In perfecting the chassis, Studebaker has secured that one essential feature which is so important to touring—ROADABILITY. Through balance, spring suspension, proper wheelbase, scientific distribution of weight, ease of control, Studebaker has developed the most roadable cars on the market.

Finish The remarkable superiority of Studebaker coach-work is plainly evident in the beautiful, distinctive gun-metal finish with its ivory striping. Studebaker upholstering is of genuine highest grade, semi-glazed leather usually found only in the most expensive cars and Studebaker uses in cushion work the best of real curled hair. The top is leather-bound. The carpet in the tonneau is leather-edged. Not a detail of finish is overlooked.

Other Specifications Every Studebaker car is equipped with Blackmore patent door curtain openers. The side curtains open with the doors, making it as easy for you to get in and out of as a limousine. Studebaker uses 13 Timken Bearings in its design. Besides all the foregoing, a Studebaker equipment includes real one-man top, Stewart-Warner magnetic Speedometer, Yale Lock on the Ignition Switch, Motor-Driven Sparton Horn mounted under the hood, and a special adjustable rain-vision windshield that is built especially for Studebaker bodies. Tires—on the Four 34x4; on the Six, 35x4½.

Fight in Berwyn.

The city election held in Berwyn yesterday was an orderly affair and devoid of excitement until two of the defeated candidates for office met in front of the city hall last night where the ballots were being counted, and engaged in a physical encounter. When the fight ended, according to the police, Alexander E. Nelson, defeated on the "harmony ticket" for city attorney, fled from the "battlefield" leaving behind his hat. His opponent in the first was Charles F. Smith, who was defeated for reflection as mayor.

The ill feeling between the two men is said to have been due to remarks alleged to have been made by Nelson against Smith while the campaign was at its height.

Those elected in Berwyn were:

Mayor, George H. Anderson; city attorney, Gideon S. Thompson; city clerk, John B. Rost Jr.; city treasurer, Edward Polka (united). Aldermen, Humiston, Rudderham, Russell, Berg, Nisicka.

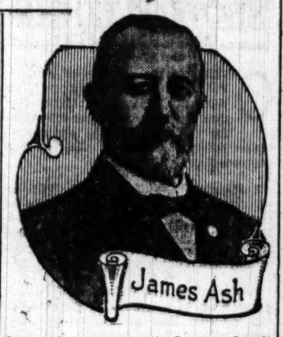
Simple Laxative Remedy Best for Constipation

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Gave Satisfaction When Nothing Else Would.



Nearly every one, at one time or another, suffers from constipation, or inactive bowels, and one of the few conclusions upon which the doctors agree is that regularity of the bowels is an essential to good health.

In the family medicine chest of most well-ordered households will be found one or more of the various remedies recommended for the relief of constipation. In the majority of homes today the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is recognized as the standard laxative. Druggists everywhere report a constantly increasing demand for this splendid remedy which is sold for fifty cents a bottle.

Mr. James Ash, 102 Green St., Cumberland, Md., wrote to Dr. Caldwell that he found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the most effective remedy for constipation he had ever used and that he always keeps a bottle of it on hand for use when necessary.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, and does not gripe or strain, but acts gently and brings relief in an easy, natural manner. Its freedom from opiates or narcotic drugs makes it the ideal family laxative.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for whom this advertisement is published.

ECZEMA IS ONLY SKIN DEEP

Tortured, itching, diseased skin is due, according to Dr. Hebra, to a skin virus. One noted authority, in reply to a Tribune reader, says: "In well marked cases the burrows of the itch mite can be seen as brownish black dotted lines, especially between the fingers and in other folds and crevices of the skin. The female lives and lays her eggs at the end of this main track. Largely as the result of scratching there are boils, blisters and wrench marks." This eminent medical authority justifies the claim of the makers of CRANOLENE Treatment that skin affections are due to a skin parasite. The parasite must be destroyed before the skin can heal. The powerful fatty acid in Cranolene seems to destroy this parasite, and then its soothing, healing properties quickly clear the skin of all traces of disease, leaving it fresh and vigorous. Painful Swollen Veins Quickly Relieved and Reduced

Mrs. R. M. Reigler, of Federal, Kansas, writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffered with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine, Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter, "The large knots in the veins left, it was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since."

TWO CUB HITS WIN SHUTOUT AT ST. JOE, 1-0

Big Jim Vaughn Goes the Route and Qualifies to Hurl Opening Battle.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 13.—[Special.]—Just to prove they are versatile in the art of playing baseball the revamped Cubs went out and won a game of ball with only two hits to their credit. They had been belting the ball in El Paso and Oklahoma City with such fury that they had won three games and scored something like sixty runs, but today they bumped into Jack Holland's team of the Western league and made only two base hits and yet won, 1 to 0.

It was quite an achievement for the Chicagoans and quite a feather in the cap of Jim Vaughn of Honey Wells, Tex., or somewhere. Before the game Big Jim went to Manager Mitchell and asked to be sent over the entire route of nine innings just to see if he was ready to hustle for that length of time in a big league game. You see, Big Jim wants to open the season in Chicago a week from Wednesday and it was about time that he learned whether he was strong enough to go nine innings.

Vaughn Gets Hard Test.

—Manager Mitchell granted the request and Big Jim went the nine rounds, but he never dreamed it would be necessary for him to exert himself all the way in order to win. If he hadn't been careful he would have been licked and perhaps wouldn't even be considered as a man to be on the slab for the opening game.

While Jim allowed only two base hits, he was in trouble or danger half a dozen times, but each time he got out by his own good pitching or through the splendid backing of his mates.

Jack Holland has assembled quite a horde of athletes and had hopes of beating the Cubs, but when he saw the way the north siders of Chicago handled themselves he decided a lot of the stuff he had read about the Cubs was pure bunk and that after all Fred Mitchell had a big league club.

Two pitchers worked for the locals, Hovlik toiling for five rounds, after which Bob Wright took the job. Bob was one of us a year ago down in Tampa, but didn't stick long enough to get his name in the big league box score.

Win in Fourth Round.

The lone tally was made while Hovlik was laboring in the fourth. He began by letting Cy Williams reach first base on his own wild throw. A sacrifice and an infield out put Cy on third, from where he jigged home when Haley juggled and kicked a ground ball by Larry Doyle. It was a close way to make a run.

Immediately after dinner tonight the Cubs took a trolley for Kansas City, where they are booked to show themselves for the next two days. Score:

M'GRAW TO ASK ACTION ON COBB

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 3.—Manager John McGraw of the Giants has decided to ask action by the national commission, either directly or through some minor league club, on Ty Cobb's course in getting out of the exhibition series.

McGraw claims that the Detroit star is subject to punishment, inasmuch as he had been advertised to appear in all of the towns where the two clubs will play.

There is a rule of the commission that forces a club to present at any exhibition all of the players that it has announced. Under this rule the Chicago Cubs were fined on two different occasions.

Manufacturers' League Fills 8 Team Circuit

The Chicago Manufacturers' Baseball league completed its membership last night by granting its eighth franchise to Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. The houses represented are:

Duntley company, Addressograph company, Goddard Tools, Benjamin Electrics, Johns Manville company, Stromberg Motor Device company, Northwest Terra Cotta company, and Carson-Pirie-Scott.

The schedule will open April 28, playing two rounds of games.

KANSAS SANDSTORM TOO MUCH FOR SOX; CALL OFF BALL GAME

ENOUGH BULL

Wichita, Kas., April 3.—The large red domesticated male kine which a certain advertising genius has made familiar to baseball fans is missing from the Wichita ball park. When a local scribe was asked, "What's become of the bull?" he explained, "Frank Isbell is back and he can hand out plenty."

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Wichita, Kas., April 3.—[Special.]—Speaking of windy cites, this town has something on Chicago every time the White Sox stop here in the spring. Today it was a little bit more so, with the worst sandstorm in the state's history in progress, consequently the game between the regulars and Isbell's team was called off.

Drill and Practice.

Comiskey's former star left it to Manager Rowland, however, as he was willing to play without a spectator if the Sox needed the practice. Rowland decided no good could be obtained from a joke ball game and chose to devote the afternoon to physical exercise.

It was divided between military drill under Sergt. Smiley and batting and fielding practice under Boss Rowland. The Sox returned to their hotel with their craws full of sand and "all het up," consequently lost nothing in condition even if they did not earn expenses.

The players renewed acquaintance with three players who started the season—Andy Norman, THE TRIBUNE'S prize winner of 1916; Fred Lyons, and Dolly Gray. The last named was not in uniform but is holding out against his release to the Fort Worth team. Gray, according to the best obtainable information, believes he is a better catcher than Schalk and intimates the White Sox did not give him a square deal in not making him first backstop.

"Tribune" Boy Good Prospect.

Isbell has hopes of making a pitcher out of Norman for Comiskey, but it is not certain the youngster is yet ripe for class A company. He is going to give Norman every chance to learn, however.

SOX ROOKS BLANK OKLAHOMA U., 6-0

Chickasha, Okla., April 3.—[Special.]—The Chicago White Sox Yannigans blanked University of Oklahoma nine, 6 to 0. The college boys came over from Norman, where they played the Sox regulars yesterday. The game was played in the teeth of a windstorm that swept across the field and bothered pitchers, batters, and fielders, alike. The Yannigans had to leave on an early train for Oklahoma City, so the game was called in the seventh. Benz went the whole distance, but the gale interfered with his control. Eddie Murphy hurt an ankle boarding a street car, but played just the same. Score:

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS by RING W. LARDNER

THE FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE.

CHICAGO, April 3.—[Editor of the Wake.]—My husband gets up every morning with a fierce grouch. Neither a cigarette nor a cup of coffee cheers him up. But the moment he gets hold of the sporting page and reads a certain column therein, he is all smiles. I sincerely hope you will not go to war.

MRS. H. S. T.

When our country's honor is at stake, we cannot consider your domestic felicity or lack of it.—Editor of the Wake.

Oskaloosa, Ia., April 2.—[Editor of the Wake.]—We have taken THE TRIBUNE for ninety-three years and like all of it, but most thoroughly we enjoy a certain feature which appears every morning on the sporting page, and it isn't the Mouse pictures either. All of us pray that you will not enlist.

Duty to the nation is paramount to duty to Oskaloosa.—Editor of the Wake.

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 3.—[Editor of the Wake.]—The members of my family all qualify as TRIBUNE fans. They were all invalids up to the spring of 1913, when a certain column was started on the sporting page. By reading it they have regained their health, but are now in dread of relapses which would surely result if the editor of this column stopped writing and joined the army.

L. H. K.

Centralia, Ill., April 2.—[Editor of the Wake.]—We were guests at a dinner party tonight and everybody was talking about a certain department of THE TRIBUNE in words of glowing admiration. One of the party suddenly remarked: "Wouldn't it be hell if he should go to war!" The thought put a damper on us and the affair promised to wind up in a general outburst of grief. But some one suggested we write a letter begging the editor of this department to stay on his job and let men of less nationwide worth do the fighting.

COMMITTEE OF CENTRALIANS.

While it is extremely distasteful to stab Centralia society to the quick, it is felt that the higher duty to the army and navy demands it—Editor of the Wake.

Bryan, O., April 2.—[Editor of the Wake.]—The war with Germany is bound to be fraught with hardship at best, but if the person who conducts a certain feature on the sporting page of THE TRIBUNE feels it incumbent on him to give up his great work and enlist, the United States might as well go to the dogs.

F. L. I.

Go to the dogs the country may,
But we must fight for the U. S. A.
—Editor of the Wake.

Gulfport, Miss., April 1.—[Editor of the Wake.]—If President Wilson had ever suspected that the editor of a certain column on the W. G. N.'s sporting sheet would insist on joining the army, he would undoubtedly have declared for peace at any price. Don't drive us crazy.

R. H. J.

We go, though it may drive you dippy,
O Gentlemen from Mississippi!

Fireworks, Flag Raising, to Start Off Cub Season

A novelty in the way of daylight fireworks will feature the grand opening of the baseball season at Cub park a week from today. Arrangements for tilting the lid have been completed by Prexy Weeghman, and the fireworks stunt is the stellar attraction of the ceremonies. Gov. Frank O. Lowden has promised to appear and toss forth the first ball, provided the war does not necessitate his presence at Springfield. Federal Judge K. M. Landis and Mayor Thompson both are slated to appear and help the governor to do his bit.

A band of fifty pieces has been secured for the occasion. Just before the game gets under way Manager Mitchell's Cubs and Jim Callahan's Pittsburgh Pirates will march to the flagpole in military formation and hoist a new edition of Old Glory to the breeze.

James H. White & Co. are dealers in golf supplies. Mr. White was about to close his office for the night when a Western Union messenger arrived. White signed for the message, but after reading its contents dashed into the hallway and returned the message to the boy. It read: "Quote price on three cases of eggs."

This recalled the visit of a husky teamster, who deposited a sack containing something which possessed a pungent aroma quite strange to the golf supply business. White found on examining the bill that it was two untanned hides intended for James H. White & Co., South Water street merchants. "We use quite a lot of leather," commented White, "but this lot was in a state of unpreparedness."

WAR!

How the National Crisis Affects Sports and Sportsmen.

J. R. GRAHAM, pole vaulter, and Andrew C. Ortmayer, wrestler and handball player, of the Chicago Athletic association, are members of aviation corps. West Point, N. Y., April 3.—[Special.]—A declaration of war will not materially affect army sports. Army folks say the war game is no new thing to them and sports are the soldiers' only diversion. If any of the army's prospective opponents give up sports because of war the cadets will endeavor to schedule other teams to take their places. An early graduation of the first class which has been decided upon will take only one regular from the army's baseball squad.

This order will affect the crew, baseball, la crosse, tennis, and track squads, in which more than 400 athletes are in active training.

Cornell has more than 1,700 students taking part in the regular military drills.

Exhaust Echoes by Sheppard Butler

ALTHOUGH it was announced by campaigners at Springfield as a supporter of the proposed $60,000,000 good roads bond issue for Illinois and the plan to finance the undertaking by doubling automobile license fees, the Chicago Motor club now finds that it isn't quite ready to speak its mind on the subject. The board of directors indorsed the bond issue only this week, and it was decided further to submit the proposition to a general vote of the membership and abide by its decision as to whether the project shall be supported or opposed.

Assurances that "the Chicago Motor club and the Illinois Automobile association" were officially in favor of the increased license fees had considerable weight in winning Gov. Lowden to the bond issue plan before the bills incorporating it were introduced at the state capital. Inasmuch as the Illinois Automobile association has been in a moribund state for years and the Chicago Motor club hasn't expressed itself as a body, it would seem that somebody was a bit overenthusiastic. Indications are that Illinois motorists are quite willing to pay double fees to get better roads, but why not give them a chance to say so?

A. L. Webster, municipal engineer of Wheaton, is preparing to mark a Lincoln highway "feeder" through the city and the rest of Du Page county. The insignia of the highway are to be placed on telephone poles leading to the main trail before the early summer tide of tourist traffic begins.

A parade of thirty Elgin sixes, filled with Chicago business men and other guests of C. S. Rieman, general manager of the Elgin Motor Car corporation, wound through the loop Monday on its way to the factory at Sixty-first street and Archer avenue, where the plant was subjected to a tour of inspection. Flags decorated the cars and a fife and drum corps of G. A. R. veterans lent a picturesque touch to the proceedings.

Patriotic and military features appropriate to the national temper of the moment are being whipped into shape at eleventh hour rehearsals for the Chicago Automobile club's frolic, to be held at the Strand theater April 9. A full fledged musical revue will be the piece de resistance of the program, in which the musical clubs of Brown university and the military band and cadet corps of the Morgan Park Military academy will have important parts.

William G. Edens, president of the associated roads organizations of Chicago and Cook county and of the Illinois Highway Improvement association, will be one of three guests of honor tomorrow evening at a good roads dinner given by the Chamber of Commerce and Automobile club of Kansas City. The Missourians are after more permanent roads in Jackson county, which surrounds the town they live in.

MAROONS TAKE GAME OF ERRQRS

Pat Page's University of Chicago arctic explorers defeated the First National bank baseball team, 9 to 3, on Stagg field. The Maroons fielded badly, making six errors, but the bankers committed seven. The Maroons combined their hits with the bankers' bobbles for seven runs in the first three rounds. Page tried both Larkin and Marum in his quest for a pitcher. The former held the losers hitless for four innings and Marum would not have been scored upon with good backing. Today the Maroons battle Jack Ness, White Sox holdout, and his U. S. Ball Bearing nine of the Commercial league. Score:

DARCY TO BECOME CITIZEN OF U. S. AND RESIDE HERE

Australian Will Apply for First Papers Today and Then Start South.

BY RAY PEARSON.

Les Darcy, champion middleweight of Australia, let out a little secret yesterday. He's going to become a naturalized citizen of the United States and will make Chicago his home. His selection of this city for a permanent abode was made during his recent visit here when he did a week's stage work. It took the action of Gov. Whitman in barring him from scrapping in the Empire state to clinch the matter, however, for before that he had thought of locating in Gotham.

Darcy arrived yesterday on his way to New Orleans, where he boxes Smith April 23. He had planned to leave today at noon, but changed his leaving time until night, as he wants to file application for citizenship before departing. He was accompanied by Freddie Gilmore, who is acting as his manager, and Trainer Nick Hawtin.

May Box in Wisconsin.

"This fight with Smith will get me started," Darcy said. "Then I'll be busy and I think that I will get plenty of bouts, judging from communications I have received."

It begins to look as if Darcy will be able to settle his difficulties with the Wisconsin boxing commission and box in Milwaukee before long. He was informed yesterday that the commission was willing to discuss the managerial angle which caused him to be barred in the Badger state and April [illegible] was suggested as the date for this conference. Darcy will be training for the Smith bout in New Orleans, however, at that time, so he will have to see the comish later.

Mitchell Wants Decision Bout.

Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee wants a real decision when he meets Benny Leonard in Milwaukee April [illegible] and to bring about that end has suggested that a board of three newspaper critics sit in judgment, the verdict of the majority to be final. It is Mitchell's idea to have one critic selected from the west and one from the east, the two to pick the third. Also Mitchell believes the winner should be entitled to the title of American lightweight champion. If this plan works out, Promoter Tom Andrews will present the winner with a belt.

Tryouts to pick a team to represent the Arcade gymnasium in the Central Amateur Athletic union boxing championships at Cleveland under the auspices of the Cleveland Athletic club April 13 and 20 will begin at the Arcade gymnasium this afternoon. ALDERMEN MUST CLIMB BECAUSE OF CITY STRIKE

Lift Operators and Others Due to Walk Out This Morning.

Mayor Thompson and the city's aldermen were seriously considering last night whether they would provide themselves with alpinstocks and Swiss guides in order to get to the council chamber for their meeting today.

They will be forced to climb there, since the city hall elevator men will go on strike this morning in connection with the walkout of Building Trades council members employed on construction work for the city. Formerly, however, the council chamber was on the second floor.

2,000 Men Out by Tonight.

About 2,000 workmen in practically all of the building trades organizations will be on strike by tonight, it was stated yesterday by Simon O'Donnell, president of the Building Trades council. A majority went out on Monday, refitting their jobs on the new Mayfair and Central Park pumping stations, the bridewell power house, and the city shops south of the bridewell. Yesterday repair men at a majority of the other pumping stations joined the strike.

"Will the strike of repair men affect Chicago's water supply or endanger the city from fire by reason of any of the pumps not being in repair?" Commissioner of Public Works Frank I. Bennett was asked.

"If the strike were protracted until the summer that state of affairs might exist," was the reply. "But now, when a maximum quantity of water is not called for, the pumping stations will manage to get along."

Others to Go Out.

Today 1,000 ironworkers, plumbers, cement men, carpenters, plumbers, and other construction workers will be called away from work on new police and fire stations.

William Gunther of the trades council gave the following as some of the reasons for the strike:

Placing of a number of "sixty day" laborers in jobs after 100 laborers certified under civil service were laid off.

Failure of the city to pay steamfitters the union scale of $6 a day.

$10,000 JEWELS LOST IN TAXICAB; $500 REWARD

A reward of $500 is offered through the Mooney & Boland detective agency for the return of an oblong rose colored leather box containing diamonds and other gems said to be worth $10,000. No questions will be asked.

The detective agency refused to say who the woman was who lost the jewelry.

The woman and her escort are said to have stepped into a taxicab on Sunday night near Melrose avenue and Halsted street. While motoring to the Blue Goose inn the young woman asked that her companion place the box in his pocket for safety. He thought he put it in his hip pocket, and, in any case, his integrity is not questioned.

When, some hours later, the couple arrived at the Hotel Sherman, the little box was missing.

WAGNER CHARGE 'TAKEN BACK' BY MAYOR MITCHEL

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—When Mayor John P. Mitchel of New York stated recently that the opposition of State Senator Robert F. Wagner to the passage of the Rockaway fortifications bill indicated that the senator was working more in the interests of Germany than in the interests of the United States he did not intend to charge the legislator with conscious and international disloyalty to this country.

This declaration was made by the mayor late today while under cross-examination before the senate on charges of having made a false and malicious report concerning Senator Wagner. Friends of Senator Wagner interpreted Mayor Mitchel's explanation as a vindication of the senator's patriotism.

Mann Act Case Said to Involve Prominent Man

Two girls who had been held throughout the earlier part of the night at the East Chicago avenue police station were removed shortly before 1 a. m. to the South Clark street annex. It was said they are held in connection with a Mann act case in which a prominent Chicagoan is involved. The girls were well dressed. No one was allowed to speak with them, and the police refused to give out any of the details of the case on the ground that they intend today to make an important arrest.

Epitaph in Lagoon Bottle Sheds No Light on Mystery

An epitaph found floating in a bottle in the Jackson park lagoon yesterday started a search among the record of missing women for the possible suicide victim who wrote the message. It read: "Died on the day of March 6 because of unhappiness." The signature was almost illegible and appeared to be that of either "Mrs. M. Moold" or "Mrs. W. Woold."

LUCKY STRIKE

LUCKY STRIKE cigarette

It's toasted

THINK of a cigarette "served" to you as appetizingly as the hot, buttered toast that comes to your breakfast table.

Well, that's the idea on this new Lucky Strike cigarette: the tobacco—it's toasted. There's a thought to make your mouth water for a new cigarette flavor.

The old kitchen stove—the toasting fork

So we worked five years—then came the big simple idea of toasting the tobacco to hold the flavor. Now, enjoy a really delicious new cigarette flavor: Lucky Strike—the real Burley cigarette—it's toasted.

How to open the package

Tear off part of the top only, as shown. Cigarettes in paper packages of 10 are carried more handily this way, and keep fresher; less likely to spill into your pocket.

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—How to make a barrel skirt look as little like a barrel as possible seems to have been the chief achievement of the fashion folkss this present spring of grace. Barrel? Why, it looks as much like one as a watch chain or a kite, say you as you meet the latest exponent of this tribe of skirts. The following are the principal ways they have gone about taking the sting out of barrel:

First, instead of the flare of some time ago, umbrella folds hanging at the sides give a little hint of the original intent. Second, the Zouave effect—a by-play of the barrel—is founded by catching under the hem. Third, the gores are made narrower around the bottom than at the knees. Fourth, we just go and plait a straight up and down skirt.

The last emancipated process is shown in today's drawing—that of a serge suit with its plaited skirt mounted on a dashing little waistcoat. Both waistcoat and real coat are trimmed with a domino pattern of black and white squares and adorable bright red buttons.

WHEN my sister was just 18 there came to our town a handsome young stranger, of perhaps, 25. He was cultured, refined, and well educated, but very reticent as to his past, or his reasons for remaining so long in a settlement of mostly ignorant and shiftless people.

We came from an old southern family, proud of our birth and ancestry, so it was with alarm and indignation we saw the stranger, who gained entrance into our home through our hospitality, gradually win the heart of my baby sister, the pride and delight of the whole household. Our family remonstrated and demanded the young stranger give an account of his past and reason for his apparent seclusion.

This the stranger refused to do, although he professed the deepest love for my sister. My father, furiously angry, bid the stranger be gone, which he did, but the next morning little sister's room was vacant. She had fled in the night with the "rascal," as my father termed him. Sister wrote to us several times, but father sternly forbade our mentioning the name of Gloria and returned her letters to the return address, unopened.

Five years passed, when a sudden illness of my father called for a speedy operation. He was taken to a hospital in the city, fifty miles from home, and I accompanied him. After father grew better I took notice of the young doctor who attended him. I could scarcely believe this was the same "rascal," who had stolen little sister. He gave no sign of recognition to either of us. Father called me one morning and said: "Is it he?" I could only say, "Yes, father!" The doctor came in, asked the usual questions, and suddenly sat down by father, took his hand, and said:

"Father, can you forgive us now, and would you like to see Gloria and the boy. I can explain now all you wished me to give years ago. I have fought a good fight and won."

Tears streamed down father's face as he said, "No, my son, I ask no explanations. My pride hath a fall, but thank God, I have found my own before it is too late."

The door opened quietly and Gloria came in with the boy. She knelt at father's bedside and kissed him. Father raised his trembling hand, blessed them, and fell back in eternal sleep with a smile of peace on his face. E. C. W.

THE CAST.

Barney Cook	Jack Pickford
Babbings	Frank Losee
Mr. Meredith	Edwin Stanley
Mrs. Meredith	Helen Greene
Beryl Meredith	Ethelmary Oakland
Rosi Hart	Ruby Hoffman

BY MAE TINEE.

INDICATIONS all point toward the probability that young Jack Pickford has a future of some moment forstold for him in the stars. As a purveyor of quiet comedy he has singular poise and personality, and "gets across" his situations with a deftness that would reflect credit on one twice his age. He was very funny in "Seventeen," but he is funnier in "The Dummy."

The picture is a busy little comedy centered on the warring Merediths, whose child is kidnaped. Husband and wife have been separated with the understanding that the youngster should spend part of her time with each. When she disappears each believes the other to have had a hand in making way with her. A detective agency is consulted.

Barney Cook (our Jackie) was a messenger boy with a soul that yearned for other things, namely to emulate one Nick Carter, for the reading of whose diverse deeds he was fired. Looking dolefully through the want ads he discovers that the detective agency in question needs a boy. He catapults to apply and is engaged. Shortly afterwards we behold him on the trail of the crooks disguised as the deaf and dumb son of a millionaire and thrown out as bait to the crowd, who promptly gobble him as they did the Meredith child before him.

His canny, awkward machinations; his vacuous stare; his broad grin, and his facile fingers all furnish much entertainment. He appears irritatingly stupid at moments when you know his brain is chasing itself in circles. But he lands his fish, indeed he does, to the delight of the audience, who applauds his prowess with the fervor usually shown only at such times as when the American flag is flashed on the screen.

Helen Greene as the mother of the child was not especially convincing. She is a fussily gotten up lady, too much furred, ear-ringed, and be-coiffed, and a trifle limp. Edwin Stanley as Mr. Meredith was more to the point. Frank Losee made a good detective though the rank and file might look askanse at his methods. Others in the cast played up well.

News of the Theaters; At the Majestic

"The Boomerang" will be on its way to California in a fortnight or so and "Seven Chances," another Belasco enterprise, will follow it at Powers', with Frank Craven and Miss Carroll McComas in the principal rôles.

Mme. Nazimova in "'Ception Shoals" is spoken of as the successor to Miss Julia Arthur and "Seremonda" at the Blackstone in two weeks.

Miss Marylka Modjeska, granddaughter of Mme. Modjeska, is to make her stage debut April 18 in "The Wonder Hat," a small play by Ben Hecht and Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. Students of the Art institute and members of the Players' Workshop company will present it and two other dramas for the benefit of the Art Students' Magazine, which is not doing well financially.

At the Majestic:

"The Meal Hound"—A new skit presenting J. C. Nugent, who is good at the delineation of slangy semi-souses in evening dress. At present he is a New York parent flirting with his daughter-in-law to see if she is worthy of his son. Says Mr. Nugent to the young woman: "Let's get something to eat; I'm thirsty."

Marion Weeks—A vocalist, it is said.

"The Bride Shop"—This is the oldtimer containing the joke about the parasites coming from Paris. There is a display of woman's wearing apparel and clowning by Andrew Tombes. "I have royal blood in my veins," says Mr. Tombes, "my mother was once stung by a queen bee."

Mayo and Tally—The funniest of the give-and-take conversationalists. They render ballads, too, being ex-members of the Empire City Quartette.

Stella Mayhew and Billee Taylor—Miss Mayhew sings and talks humorously while Mr. Taylor operates the piano. On Monday afternoon they were not among friends.

Movies—Mrs. Castle and Coming Down the River Fuji, Japan.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Those who are most fortunate can get the best eggs straight from the farm for 30 cents a dozen.

Eggs En Cocotte.

ONE of the most sophisticated ways of cooking eggs is to bake them in the special little earthenware dishes of saucer shape and little tub-like handles, called a cocotte. What we commonly call a casserole is also what the French call a cocotte, the word casserole with them meaning any saucepan whether of the old earthen sort, unglazed on the outside or one of metal.

In many a home where they will eat eggs for breakfast, the cocottes are always to be seen on a shelf near the stove. In foreign eating places the little cup shaped earthen dishes are quite as often used as the more elegant broader ones for eggs cooked in this fashion. There are quite endless combinations made, so that the recipes read, "Eggs en cocotte," with this sauce or that or vegetable or clams or sardines, etc.

Sometimes nothing more than cream is used with the egg, and again nothing but tomato juice. In the poorest eating places in Italy one gets the egg cooked thus with the tomato alone. In Switzerland, where their greatest product is milk, one gets the egg with cream.

A pretty and agreeable combination is that with sweet red pepper or the canned pimento and egg. At this season it will generally be the pimento. Allow half a canned pimento for one or two eggs. Chop it rather fine and heat it up in a bit of butter, and then put it into the cocotte. Break in a fresh egg, add salt and perhaps a grating of white pepper and two tablespoons of cream and bake in the oven for five or six minutes, or it may be cooked under the broiler at a proper distance from the fire.

When only a little of the pimentoes are to be used from a freshly opened can the rest should be heated up and put in a closed earthen of glass ware vessel and kept in the ice box. They mold soon and should be reheated or chopped and combined with butter.

Materials for Fancy Work.

"WOULD you kindly let this correspondent know how pleased I would be if I could have the crochet lace and some pieces to sew it upon? It is hard to get work out here, as there is only one factory to work in, and it is difficult to get to. The children could help me in the work if I could get crochet books and patterns. We came over from England before the war. I should appreciate the gift most highly. MAE M."

As will be guessed from the tone of the above, our correspondent writes from a town where the facilities for securing customers for fancy work are limited. Yet she has to support herself and children. Materials for her handiwork, such as are indicated in her pathetic appeal, could hardly be more worthily bestowed. Anything in the line of patterns, crochet thread, etc., will be thankfully received.

Scalp Massage Starts Beneficial Flow of Blood

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

BALDIE: MASSAGING THE scalp is not such "an awful task." It requires no special skill. You can do it easily. Of course, if you could have some one do it for you it would be better. But the success of the work is in producing a feeling of life and glow and a sense of warmth. The object is to stimulate the circulation of the blood in the scalp, and you do this by moving portions of the scalp back and forward with the fingers. Dip the fingers in the tonic before beginning the massage and repeat the dipping whenever necessary. Have nails so short as not to injure the scalp. Begin by placing the hands with the fingers spread out, so as to cover as wide an area as possible, at each side of the forehead just where the hair begins. The finger tips should touch in the center and cover almost the whole top of the head. Work them slowly forward in imaginary circles, first gently, then firmly, over the same part of the scalp until the crown of the head is reached. Then begin with one hand above each ear and move upward in the same way until the fingers meet at the crown of the head. The third and last movement is to work from the neck upwards to the same central point. In this way the whole scalp can be thoroughly stimulated in a couple of minutes.

SUMMER GIRL: ROWING IS AN excellent exercise. It improves the carriage by making you supple, graceful, and erect. It arches the chest and makes it strong. It quickens the circulation and increases the activity of the skin. It is fine for deep breathing and purifies the blood. In a healthy girl rowing will develop presence of mind, endurance, alertness, grace, and pluck. It may make blisters on your hands, but they will disappear in a day or two. Wearing a pair of heavy cotton gloves will often keep the hands from blistering.

ROSINA: THE BEST COSMETICS, of course, are fresh air, exercise, pure food and pure water, which, if freely used, will impart a ruddier glow to the face than any rouge, but there is no great harm in resorting to artificial beauty, only be artistic about it. Don't dab on rouge and then smear the face with powder, but take time to see that it is carefully put on and looks well. I shall be glad to send you my formula for cold cream if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Write on one side of the paper only. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

One afternoon Mary Frances visited the office of her father, a dentist. Looking around and seeing no one in the office, she asked in surprise: "Daddy, where is everybody? Did they all come this morning?" G. M. B."

There had been cream pie for lunch, and during the afternoon Elsie, being hungry, asked her mother for some pie. Mother said, "No; I've only one piece left, and that is for brother when he comes home from school."

Elsie thought a moment, then said, "Give me half of it, mother, 'cause I don't want Carroll to be selfish." E. S. R.

Our neighbor's little girl, Ruby, was at our house the other day when we noticed a young girl passing in the street, wheeling a baby buggy, and Ruby exclaimed, "O, I wish I had a little baby sister!"

"Why, you can make believe your doll is a little baby," I said.

"Yes; but you see if I had a real baby sister I could take her out in the buggy and she wouldn't be always breaking her head, like my dolly, when I tip the buggy over." E. S.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.—Advertisement.

A dress like this worn on Easter Sunday will undoubtedly create favorable comment. The style is attractive, it is "different." Those, however, who prefer other styles, will also find them at The Fair on the third floor, at 27.50.

SOCIETY and Entertainments

Concert to Aid Miss Gassette's Work for Maimed.

If people could read the letter sent recently by Miss Grace Gassette, an artist in Paris, formerly of Chicago, to friends here, they would realize why the Chicago committee members in charge of the benefit concert and dance to be given Saturday evening, April 14, at the Blackstone hotel are working so hard to make the largest possible amount of money for their cause. The proceeds will go to helping the work of Miss Gassette, who has achieved wonders in inventing devices for making the wounded comfortable in their convalescence, as well as making it possible for them to use members which might otherwise have been useless on account of wounds.

Part of the money will also go to the work of the Baroness Huard, who has established an emergency hospital at her chateau in Villiers, France, and the rest will go to the fund of the facial and dental surgery department in the American Ambulance hospital in Paris.

"When I arrived at my clinic today," writes Miss Gassette, who has learned through her experience in emergency war hospitals how to contrive these devices, "there were five wounded men waiting for me. The first was a farmer who had his shoulder shot away, and for whom I had made a trial apparatus, so that he could raise his arm. Another came who had a tarsus shot away and could not walk. I fixed him so he could walk without pain." The story of the work is a long one, and full of similar examples of relief and of the equipping of men who have been made useful, instead of remaining incapacitated for work.

Mrs. Archibald E. Freer is chairman of the ticket committee for the benefit. Mme. Marguerite Beriza will sing, Herman Devries will play the piano, and Louise St. John Westervelt will conduct the Columbia School chorus. At the dance later Mme. Beriza and E. de Fricat will lead the march.

Cyrus McCormick May Be Envoy.

BY CINDERELLA.

One May moving which was scheduled, but which will not take place, is that of the Wrenn family at 1500 Astor street. The Wrenn house, built some years ago by the Pattersons, and one of the most cheerful and charming dwellings on the north side, as well as one of the handsomest outwardly, was bought two years ago by Cyrus H. McCormick, when John Wrenn's estate was settled. Mr. McCormick also bought a wide lot directly north of the house in Astor street, and David Adler was engaged to do the rest.

It was generally understood that the results of Mr. Adler's handiwork would be the Chicago house of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick Jr., on their return home from two years in Wichita, Kans. Until a fortnight ago, the Wrenn family expected to move; Miss Ethel Wrenn and Mr. Harold Wrenn to one apartment, Mr. Frederick Norcross and his two young daughters, to its neighbor.

Then came the cheering news that Mr. Cyrus McCormick would not want the Wrenn house for perhaps three or four years. This revived the interesting story that Mr. and Mrs. McCormick would be called to represent their country abroad, when their children would occupy the Huron street house, so splendidly made over, three years ago. Miss Wrenn, one of the world's best housekeepers and most charming hostesses must have jumped for joy when she had this reprieve, for the Wrenn library is the second largest and most complete in the world in first editions, and the big house is simply running over with valuable books as well as famous etchings.

Harold Wrenn went to England a while ago with an eye to disposing of a fraction of the library, but it was war time there and even dukes and great collectors were trying to sell to a falling market.

Among the Wrenn etchings are some Rembrandts and several Whistlers, while the brocaded walls of the drawing rooms, and the circular sweep of the stairs are all hung with these unique black and whites.

There's a new baby in town to bear an honored name, and make things very, very interesting for Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dickinson Jr. This is the week old grandson of Judge Dickinson. Mrs. Dickinson was Miss Margaret Smith of Cincinnati, a bride of last June. The honeymoon at Virginia Hot Springs was a romance interrupted by the call to arms, the young husband being a private in battery C.

Mrs. Charles Deering is here from New York visiting her fourth grandson, Chauncey McCormick's second boy, and staying with the McCormicks in Rush street. Mrs. Deering, who is very handsome and most popular, belonged to that particular Chicago circle of which Mrs. Marshall Field was a member, and of whom so few are now living here.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

The Successful Home Garden.

BY J. F. H. HEIDE.
ARTICLE NO. 31.

Starting a Lawn.

This department will appear daily and Sunday in "The Tribune." Inquiries from readers desiring through neighborhood and back yard gardens to decrease the cost of living should be addressed to The Garden Editor.

After planting such trees and shrubs as may have been planned and marking off the space set aside for kitchen and flower gardens, the remaining space, from street curbing to alley line, should, for hygienic and æsthetic reasons, be devoted to a permanent velvety lawn.

It is an establishment which must endure as long as the house, is "cropped" many times in the course of the year by mowing, and therefore requires a soil fully as fertile as that of the garden.

On areas of less than an acre the ground is best made level in this vacinity, while undulations and terraces would probably enhance the beauty of larger tracts.

As in the garden, the ground is first cleared of cans, rubbish, cinders, and stones from the size of an egg upward. These may be buried in holes or trenches which will serve as drains. Depressions must be filled in such manner as to leave six or eight inches of top soil at the surface.

The ground is then evenly covered with any manure that is available, at the rate of twenty-five to thirty tons per acre or about, 313 to 375 pounds to the square rod. Either water-slaked lime or ground limestone is spread over this at the rate of one-tenth the weight of the manure used. A square rod is a space measuring 16½ feet each way.

This is turned under by spading or plowing fully eight inches deep, providing no stiff, raw clay or coarse gravel is encountered above that level. In that case, sufficient rich top soil should be thoroughly incorporated with the manure and lime to build up the humus to at least six inches.

In the case of clayey soils the ground should be left in the rough, after spading or plowing, for a period of two weeks. After that, it is thoroughly hoed, or harrowed, most easily done a day or two after a rain. Lumps that do not break up readily must receive individual treatment.

A thin coating of pulverized manure or a light dusting of bone meal may then profitably be raked in, while thoroughly pulverizing the surface to the depth of the rake teeth.

The whole area is then compacted with a heavy roller on large areas or with a weighted tamper on the ordinary building lot. The most satisfactory lawn roller is a water-weight roller, costing now from about $8.80 for the 20-inch width to about $19.50 for the 32-inch width. The desired weight is attained by means of water ballast. The tamper is a homemade affair the editor has tried out satisfactorily. It consist of a piece of board 12 inches square whose center is securely nailed over the flat end of an old broom or rake handle. Horseshoes or other metal may be nailed to the upper surface of the board for weight.

The soil is then lightly gone over again with a steel rake and made ready for seeding.

Cheap mixtures can often be depended on to produce weeds, quack grass, and clover, which survive neglect better than attractive grasses. However, if a beautiful velvety lawn is desired and given ordinary care, nothing but bluegrass, with a little red-top as nurse crop and perhaps a little white clover, should be considered.

CARROTS AND COSMETICS

Carrots instead of cosmetics were advocated at a meeting of the Woman's Association of Commerce yesterday. Mrs. W. C. H. Keough spoke on the need for window box gardens in which vegetables can be grown as a substitute for flowers.

"Some vegetables are really beautiful," she said. "What is prettier than the foliage of the humble carrot. And carrots are extremely good for the complexion, and therefore entirely wholesome. Let us plant carrots instead of expensive ferns in our window boxes, and save money on our cosmetic bills."

Judge Joseph Sabath spoke at a meeting of the Junior Cheer and Comfort league at Hotel Sherman. He praised the work of these earnest young women whose society was organized to give immediate relief in cases of destitution in the Court of Domestic Relations.

HOYNE ATTACKS GUGGENHEIM DIVORCE DECREE

State's Attorney Hoyne filed an intervening petition before the state Supreme court yesterday in Springfield so that he can ask the court to set aside the divorce granted Mrs. Grace Guggenheim from William Guggenheim in 1901. The prosecutor will ask that the decree be expunged from the records of this state in the interest of public policy.

Mr. Hoyne filed the petition at the request of Judge Baldwin. He charges that the divorce was granted on the misrepresentation of Mrs. Guggenheim that she was a resident of Illinois at the time, a misrepresentation in which Guggenheim, it is charged, concurred.

Guggenheim and Grace Brown were married in 1901 and Mrs. Guggenheim obtained her divorce a few months later from Judge Edward F. Dunne. She married Jules R. Wahl and Guggenheim also remarried. Wahl had the marriage annulled on the grounds that her divorce was not valid. Mrs. Guggenheim-Wahl then sought to have her divorce set aside, but in this she was unsuccessful.

BACKBONE

Mr. Rauffias Has a Unique One, for It's Patched with Sterling Silver.

JOHN RAUFFIAS is the proudest man in the United States. He is the only original "man with the silver spine," and he lies in his bed in Hibbard ward of St. Luke's hospital and tells you how his backbone came to be patched with sterling silver.

John is some aviator. Six weeks ago he took passage on a grand piano which he was moving in by way of a window and sailed through the atmosphere from the fourth floor of the building where he was working. He was found clinging to the remains of his strange air craft.

There wasn't much left of John, they thought. His back was broken and he was fearfully bruised. But Dr. L. L. McArthur put his spine together again and bound it with silver, and now the only thing that worries him is the welfare of his wife and three children.

MAN MURDERED? POLICE SEARCH FOR HIS BODY

Murder may have been committed in the "Black Hand" country around "death corner" at Milton and Oak streets last night, the police believe, though so far no evidences of crime have been found.

Mrs. Pearl Metz, 511 West Division street, heard three shots and two wagon loads of detectives from East Chicago avenue raided the flat of Michael Coneclio, at 1159 Milton street, which was termed by Lieut. Patrick McCauley a "murder factory."

In the flat the police found the carpet had been newly torn from the floor and a green baize cloth from a gambling table. This, the police think, was done to do away with blood stains. Neither the carpet nor cloth could be found.

A loaded sawedoff shotgun, a dagger, jimmy, sword, revolver, and decks of cards were confiscated. Frank Cinani, who was in the flat, was arrested. The police believe the three shots were fired in a fight over a card game and that the victim, if there was one, was hidden.

Henry Van West Takes a Police Lesson on How to Fly Old Glory.

THERE were a dozen or more flags of nations strung on a telephone pole from a corner of the roof of the home of Henry Van West at 4000 Vincennes avenue.

Patriotic neighbors noted that Old Glory was not in its proper place at the head of them all. Five minutes later the reserves from the Fiftieth street station came over. It was fortunate for Mr. Van West that they arrived.

"I mean no disrespect," he declared to Sergt. Corcoran. "I thought that was the proper place, right in the center of all the other flags—in the heart of the world."

"Heart nothing—head," said Corcoran grimly. "The stars and stripes wave now at the head of all the other flags."

CITY PLEDGES ITS SUPPORT TO PRESIDENT

Thousands Jam Auditorium at Great Patriotic Massmeeting.

In a meeting wildly enthusiastic, and breaking time and again into patriotic cheers, an audience which filled the Auditorium theater to overflowing last night went on record for universal military service and an adequate army, pledged its support to the government and cried for a "place on the Hindenburg line."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Security league.

From the time the band began to play "The Red, White, and Blue," as the theater was filling up, until the closing song, "America," the crowd never wavered in its enthusiasm. Figures it cared not for, nor accounts of events past. But when the speakers made an appeal to the loyalty of the audience or mentioned the duty to the flag, or spoke of the glorious fight that France has made, they were interrupted with cheers, and frequently the audience rose as one person, waving flags and arms, and shouting approval.

Theater Too Small.

The theater was not large enough to hold the crowd that sought to get in. A few minutes after the doors were opened, it had filled to capacity, except for a space in the front of the house which was being reserved for members of the national guard and the G. A. R., who marched in just before the speaking started. Hundreds who reached the theater between 7 and 8 o'clock were turned away.

It was by no means a platform meeting. Every person took part. If there was an interval between songs or speeches, some man stood up and led three cheers for Abraham Lincoln, or Theodore Roosevelt, or President Wilson. Occasionally the speakers were interrupted with patriotic outcries. When Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, said that the United States did not have a single aeroplane which could meet on equal terms the planes of any of the countries at war, a man shouted: "We'll get 'em, we'll get 'em."

"We're Going to Fight."

Again Mr. Stimson said:

"What are we going to do now that we are going into this war?"

Another man shouted from the balcony: "We are going to fight." When the cheers had stopped, Mr. Stimson said:

"Yes, but you have got to be prepared to fight." He was making an appeal for adequate support for the army. The only intimation of heckling came during Mr. Stimson's speech, the last on the program. When he spoke of going into the war a woman far in the gallery cried:

"Give us a referendum." Mr. Stimson started to finish his sentence, when the same voice repeaetd the statement. Immediately a storm of male voices drowned the voice of the woman with shouts of "Take her out," "Shut up," and hisses. A policeman hurried to the woman and warned her against interfering with the speaker.

What Would World Think?

"They don't know what they are talking about," said Mr. Stimson, "when they say we are going into an independent war. We are able to discuss this matter calmly tonight only because plucky, brave France has got the mad ball by the horns and Admiral Beatty is watching in the North sea. What will the world think of that nation which went to war with money and stayed at home with men?"

President Edmund J. James of the University of Illinois, who presided, struck the keynote of the sentiment of the meeting when he quoted Stephen A. Douglas: "Where the union is at stake, there are only patriots and traitors." Later Frederic R. Coudert referred to the same thing.

Just before the program opened a group of Grand army men filed in playing "Marching Through Georgia" with fife and drum. They were given seats on the stage. The veterans of the Spanish war followed, then the recruiting officers for the army and the navy, the men of the naval training station, the First infantry, I. N. G., and a troop of the First cavalry.

Admiral Speaks First.

Bishop Charles P. Anderson gave the invocation and Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary made the first address, conducting a vigorous appeal for an extensive aviation program, with a new department of aeronautics in the government. Admiral Peary suggested Gen. Goethals as the secretary of aviation.

In his opening address President James pointed out the fact that the present situation among German-Americans is no different than that of British-Americans in the revolution and war of 1812 and of French-Americans at several times when relations between this country and France were so strained that war seemed imminent.

"We expect, nay, we know," he said, "that our fellow citizens of German birth will be with us in every crisis of our national development, will stand for the principles on which the union is founded, and strive with us, shoulder to shoulder, in pursuit of the ends for which this government was established.

"We know not whither this war will lead us. We know not who of us will fall or where, but of one thing we may be convinced, that no man who lays down his life for this republic need fear that his life has been wasted."

Points to War's Lesson.

"The life and death struggle abroad has focused first energy and attention on military air power, and is forcing its development with a rapidity that is startling," Admiral Peary said.

"The broadest material lesson for the United States in the present European war is this: Command of the sea and command of the land are worthless without command of the air."

"The foreign born and their descendants deserve no great credit for being the first and foremost to offer their assistance and enlist in the army and navy of the United States at this time," said Louis N. Hammerling, president of the Association of Foreign Language Newspapers.

"We owe our lives, our liberty, our all, to this freat country."

Telegrams urging the adoption of universal military service from Joseph H. Choate, Robert Bacon, Congressman W. W. Wilson, John P. Mitchel, mayor of New York, and George W. Wickersham were read.

PLEDGE AID

Chicagoans at the Auditorium Massmeeting Last Night Voiced Their Approval of Universal Service and Promised to Support the Government.

RESOLUTIONS calling for universal military service, for the filling of the ranks of the army and navy and national guard to full war strength, for better pay for soldiers, and provision for their families, and pledging support to the government were passed by a rising vote last night at the patriotic rally at the Auditorium theater. The text of the resolutions follow:

"We, citizens of Chicago, in massmeeting assembled, hereby declare our whole hearted approval of our president's determination to protect American life and property and uphold the honor of this our country. Conscious of the grave emergency which confronts us, and anxious that no means be spared nor time lost, and respectfully exercising our rights to petition our government, we do hereby urge the president and congress of the United States:

"First. To provide for filling the ranks of the regular army and navy, the marine corps, and the national guard to the maximum war strength and to make enlistments more equitable.

"To our patriotic citizens:

"(A) By accepting enlistments for the period of the war; (B) by making a substantial increase in the pay of enlisted men; (C) by providing ample allowances for their families.

"Second. To provide all the equipment and munitions of war which may be necessary to fully equip our naval and military forces and to provide suitable camps, with proper sanitary arrangements, so that our forces will be on a parity with the best equipped armies of the world.

"Third. To provide ample reserve equipment and munitions of war and, in order to prevent waste and bring the maximum return for expenditure, to appoint a nonpartisan munitions board of industrial experts, who will bring to the government that efficiency which has been the crowning achievement of American enterprise.

"Fourth. To provide, not only in the present crisis but for the future, a comprehensive and effective plan of compulsory military service that shall include all male citizens of the prescribed military age capable of bearing arms and that shall provide definite, organized, trained and equipped military units, sufficient in strength and number and prepared for instant mobilization.

"And in this hour of our country's trial we urge all our fellow citizens to present an unbroken front in support of the government of the United States."

CITY CONTAINS IDLE SLACKERS, BUSY PATRIOTS

Youth Fill Movies While Recruiting Offers Fly; High Schools Drill.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

The first day after the president's message, while the United States stands on the verge of war with Germany.

Here in Chicago and on the surface little change is apparent. Many more flags are displayed than on Saturday. Flags draped about the news stand of an Italian, hung over the entrance to a Greek bootblack "parlor," flying from the shop front of a carpenter, many more flags in the windows of apartment houses, in the buttonholes of pedestrians, on the radiators of motor cars.

The feeling is more tense, yet there is little excitement.

"My Boys Are In."

"I've felt it would come for a month," said the motorman. "My two boys are in already. One enlisted in the navy in January. He left the training station at Great Lakes a month ago. We've had one letter. He's on a mine layer off the South Atlantic coast. The other is in the First regiment of the national guard. I think all the young fellows should go in. No reason why my boys should fight and yours stay at home."

Army and navy, marine corps, and national guard, all making hard drives for recruits. Pretty girls dressed as Columbia standing beside the colors, each with a sword over her shoulder in the way no sword is ever carried. Buglers blowing the calls. Recruiting sergeants asking "How about you?" as each youth stops in the crowd.

"A Great Patriotic Meeting."

Sandwich men carrying banners through the crowds, "Great Patriotic Meeting at the Auditorium Tonight." The big band from the naval training station leading a battalion of young blue jackets up and down the loop streets to advertise the same meeting. Young men in khaki, each with his girl, strolling about. Everybody buying newspaper extras.

Down on State street, south of Van Buren, the banners of the various recruiting offices hanging over the sidewalks. Plenty of recruiting sergeants, each man as trim and cleancut and soldierly as possible, swinging their swagger sticks, stopping the swarms of young men who saunter up and down.

"Come in and look us over anyhow," says the fine looking chap in front of marine headquarters, as he passes out admission tickets to the display of war material and athletic trophies gathered by the marine corps in far corners of the world. A banner that stands for the baseball championship of China, a silver cup won in South Africa. Half a dozen young street car conductors getting ready to exchange one uniform for another.

Movies Crowded.

Even the moving picture houses and the honky-tonk theaters are making a military appeal. "The Seven Military Lassies!" at one house, "The Girls in Khaki" at another.

It is 11 o'clock in the morning, and a visit to three of the largest theaters shows that in each practically every seat is filled. Many more than half the audience are young fellows in their late 'teens and twenties. Why in the world are they not at work somewhere? How can they afford to be loafing the morning away when there are jobs to be had almost everywhere?

Ten times as many young fellows are in these theaters as at the recruiting offices. Yet who more needs discipline, exercise in the open air, all that goes with life in the army, than these slouchy young loafers?

Jump out to Sixty-second street and look at a contrasting spectacle. Here, almost filling Stewart avenue from curb to curb, is a double company of boys, from 14 to 19 years old. They are practicing the foot movements and setting up exercises of the army.

High School Squad.

"Company front!" comes the command from the sergeant of the regular army who commands them. Every pair of shoulders is thrown back, heads are held high, stomachs in, eyes to the front. This is one of Capt. Steever's high school squads. They have been actively drilling only a month. Already one can tell the boys who take the drill from the others by their better carriage. They have not yet received either rifles or uniforms.

Here on Forty-seventh street is a company of cadets from the Tilden High school, also busy at their drill. Altogether there are now 3,000 boys drilling in the high schools of Chicago. And there are 2,000 more boys who want to take the drill, but for whom there will not be room until next September.

The principal of one of these high schools reports that the average scholarship standing of the boys in his school who are taking the drill had risen in three months from 89 per cent to 94 per cent. The standing of the boys who are not in the drill classes remains at the old figure.

Now what in the world can be the reason for that?

CHARLES P. TAFT INJURED BY FALL

Cincinnati, O., April 3.—[Special.]—Charles P. Taft, editor and owner of the Cincinnati Times-Star and brother of ex-President W. H. Taft, was reported tonight as slightly improved following a serious injury to his scalp and internal injuries suffered when he fell fifteen feet through an elevator shaft at the home of Michael Shoemaker in this city last night. Taft, widely known as an art lover and authority on oriental matters, went to hear Shoemaker lecture on "Egypt." He accidentally stepped into a "dummy" elevator shaft.

ARMY AVIATORS TO BE ENROLLED, TRAINED HERE

U. S. Army Captain to Open Offices Today.

Patriotic aviators, who have been roaming the corridors of the federal building in a vain search for a chance to offer their services to the government, will find a haven in the office of Capt. Joseph C. Morrow beginning today. Capt. Morrow is expected to begin immediately the organization of a Chicago aviation school and the enrollment of army aviators.

Quit in Disgust.

Two men from Elgin, ready to offer themselves for the air service, spent five hours in Chicago Monday trying to find a way to offer themselves. They were shunted from recruiting office to recruiting office, from radio inspector to signal corps, and finally left disgusted.

"What we need is a central information bureau," said an officer high in the army service. "The government has lost hundreds of army and reserve corps recruits because of a lack of coordination. Experienced officers are so busy answering questions which a good office boy could answer that they have no chance to do the work to which they are assigned. We lack money."

Morrow Here Before.

Capt. Morrow, a government aviation officer, organized a Chicago aviation school and took its members to Memphis, Tenn., where instruction has been given since January. He expected to return with the school's personnel May 1, but the orders from Washington are said to call for the return of only Capt. Morrow.

Peary Cites Needs.

"Air preparedness is the thing in which we are not only deficient but entirely lacking," said Admiral Robert E. Peary, who arrived in Chicago yesterday. "Chicago should have air defenses similar to those of Paris and London.

"Canada this year made a large appropriation for air defenses. Though I do not expect trouble with Canada, it should be remembered that Chicago is within three hours' flight of Canada, and aeroplanes could easily drop 500 tons of explosives on this city, which would completely destroy it."

They Go Up Despite Big Receipts and Board Threatens Inquiry.

SOUTH WATER STREET has been hoisted by its own petard and there are rumbles and mumbles of discontent, and the butter and egg board threatens to take a hand.

The situation was brought about by the steady tone of eggs, which simply refuse to come down from their high perch. A number of small dealers in the street figured last month that an egg Waterloo was at hand. The productive season was on, receipts were heavy, the garden campaign was being agitated, everything pointed to a lower market.

So they contracted to sell eggs, delivery by the end of March, at from 25 to 27 cents a dozen, in carload lots. All contracts for eggs for March delivery should have been completed on Saturday. But the market on that day leaped to 31 cents. According to the rules of the board that should be the settlement basis on all unfinished deals. But according to the "short" speculators, it was very painful, and they refused to settle.

Strive to Raise $95,000 for Kosher Hospital

Efforts are being made to raise $95,000 to reopen the Maimonides Kosher hospital, which has been closed for a year because of debt. Julius Rosenwald has offered to give the hospital $10,000 if it secures subscriptions totaling $25,000 a year for five years. Abraham Slimmer of Dubuque, Ia., has pledged $25,000 on condition that the people of Chicago make possible the opening of the hospital.

MAN WHO CURSED AMERICAN FLAG NABBED ON SPOT

"Want to enlist in the army?" questioned Corporal William Gillespie as he approached a man near the army recruiting station in South State street yesterday.

"To hell with the American flag," replied the man. "I'm a socialist. I was born in Germany."

"Come along with me," said Corporal Gillespie.

He was taken to the office of Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, where he was questioned relative to the length of time he had been in the United States and his mission here.

"Good work," said Mr. Clabaugh to Corporal Gillespie. "Bring in any others like him that you find."

PACIFIST WOMEN, "WARLIKE," ROUT PATRIOTIC MEN

Forty Hiss Down Plan for School Recruiting at Berkeley, Cal.

Berkeley, Cal., April 3.—Forty belligerent women pacifists routed the Berkeley board of education today and prevented that body from passing a resolution which, the women declared between hisses and catcalls, would have encouraged enlistment in the army and navy.

Men members of the board had assured an inquiring high school pupil that seniors who enlisted with their parents' consent, and whose scholastic standing was good, would be given diplomas. A meeting was called today to place the concession officially on record.

Meeting Ends Amid Hisses.

The president of the board started to explain the object of the meeting, but was interrupted by Mrs. Elvina Beals, the only woman member, who declared that such action would be "dishonest and would encourage enlistments."

The forty women, whose unexpected presence had puzzled the men members of the board, greeted this declaration with cheers, and drowned attempts to carry on the business of the board under a tumult of hisses and catcalls.

The meeting finally was declared—by signs—adjourned.

Women Urged to Prepare.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The National League for Woman's Service at its first national conference here today adopted unanimously a resolution, submitted by Mrs. William Cumming Story and indorsed by Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, expressing unqualified indorsement of the president's war messsge and pledging support of the women of the whole country. A call was issued urging women to prepare themselves for war service.

THREE CITIES OF WISCONSIN VOTE "NO WAR"

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3.—[Special.]—Three cities, Monroe, Sheboygan, and Manitowoc, held referendums today on war. In all three the pro-Americans did not vote, only the German-Americans participating. At Monroe 954 opposed action taken by congress, with 95 favoring a declaration of war.

At Manitowoc, where the referendum was conducted by a newspaper, the vote was 1,460 against war and 15 for war. Of this total 517 votes were of women, and only one woman's vote was for war.

Tribune Readers Give Four Phonographs to Hospital

The Cook county tuberculosis hospital received four phonographs in response to the appeal of Oscar Johnson, a patient, printed in last Saturday's TRIBUNE. One has been placed in the sun parlor and the other three distributed among the five floors, so that every patient hears the concerts of the attendant.

"We are very thankful," said Hattie M. Price, superintendent, "because they are the one necessity which we were unable to provide."

Janitor Strike at End; Victory Claimed by Men

Janitors, janitresses, and window-washers employed in loop office buildings returned to work yesterday after a two months' strike, winning a partial increase of wages they demanded. It was announced at union headquarters.

"Janitors were getting $55 a month and wanted $70," said Walter Zukowski, secretary of the union. "We agreed to a compromise of a 10 per cent increase for all workers in the union. The new scale goes into effect May 1."

More than 2,500 persons are members of the union, Zukowski said. He also said that janitors employed in the Conway, Merchants' Loan and Trust, and Woman's Temple buildings may be called out again in a few weeks.

BY MARK WATSON.

New York, April 3.—[Special.]—After a vigorous opening with prices in several leaders well above last night's close there came a sharp setback in the market and the day closed with pronounced losses almost throughout the list. A factor was the continued obstructive tactics of the chief of the "willful men" in the senate. A more important factor was the publication of railroad earnings, showing a marked decline in net revenue. Perhaps most important was the public's refusal to be drawn into the market until it knows better what the war is to mean to industry.

With the public thus out of the market, the professional element indulged in a little profit taking. Wilson & Co., which has been rising for days, suffered a decline, as did Steel common and other speculative issues, including the active rails. Ohio Cities Gas picked up a bit at the start, but later went down before the assault of profit takers. Motors were weak. Canadian Pacific was one of the weakest spots, losing 5 points.

The only marked reflection of the new policy to which the government is commiteed was seen in the stronger tone of international war bonds, Anglo-French's 5s gaining 2½ points, with 1⅛ for City of Paris 6s and a concurrent hardening of remittances to Paris. Lires also stiffened, but rubles yielded. Domestic bonds, railways and industrials, were irregular on light dealings. United States bonds were ⅛ to 1 per cent lower on call.

Prices for hogs at Chicago yesterday started out steady to 5c higher, due to enthusiastic buying by speculators who were nfluenced by the war talk. There was no shipping demand of consequence, however, and the packers refused to support the market, with the result that prices broke 10@15c from the early levels. Top sales were made at $15.50, while the bulk of the business was at $15.00@15.35. Pigs ruled steady. Receipts were 18,000 head.

Under receipts of 7,000 head and indifferent demand the market for calves broke 25@50c. A few fancy loads brought $13.75@14.50, but most of the good calves sold at $13.00@13.50. Cattle values held steady, with only 4,000 head received. Best steers here brought $12.50.

Sheep and lambs were generally 10@15c lower, some transactions showing even greater loss. Best wethers brought $12.50, while $15.25 was top for lambs, both Colorado and western stock bringing this price. Sale of 1,000 feeding lambs was made $15.25, going along with killers; others brought $14.75. Spring lambs sold at $19.25. Receipts were 16,000 head.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

UNION CARBIDE MEETING VOTES CAPITAL BOOST

Richmond, Va., April 3.—Stockholders of the Union Carbide company in annual session here this afternoon approved the proposition to increase the capital stock of the company from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000, approved the report of the directors on the last year's business, and reëlected President George O. Knapp and all other officers, who in turn reëlected the old board of directors.

J. Alson Cabelle, statutory agent in Virginia, presided at the meeting, at which 253,661 shares of stock were represented. Among the stockholders present from New York was Edward S. Whitney. The minimum capital stock of Union Carbide will be $50,000,000, represented by 500,000 shares of stock at $100 par. The stock is selling at $219 a share.

The manner in which the new shares are to be distributed was not announced—whether at par to the stockholders or otherwise; nor whether it is all to be issued at once.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 3.—COTTON—The news from Washington was followed by an excited advance in the cotton market which evidently reflected a bullish view of the effect of this country's entrance into the war. Advances of approximately 40@50 points occurred in prices, with May contracts selling up to 19.64c, the highest level reached since they dropped to 12.50c at the beginning of February on the announcement of the German submarine policy. That delivery closed at 19.54c, with the general list closing steady at a net advance of 36@45 points. The market opened firm at an advance of 8@21 points and sold 39@45 points net higher after the call on covering, trade buying, and a broadening outside demand. Demand tapered off somewhat around 19.33c for July, and there were reactions of 10@12 points from the best, but realizing sales were soon absorbed and the market firmed up. The highest prices were reached well along in the afternoon, with July selling at 19.36c, October at 18.47c, and December at 18.54c. This made an advance of 42@49 points over last night's closing figures and of over $4.00 a bale from the low level of Monday. Closing prices showed reactions of 6@10 points from the best. Exports for the day were 16,850 bales, making 4,380,830 bales so far this season. Port receipts were 16,160 bales. United States port stocks, 1,170,438 bales. Futures:

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, April 3.—This morning's news from Washington caused no excitement in the market for coffee futures, but after opening one point lower to two points higher, prices advanced on scattered buying, which seemed to be inspired by a belief that the entrance of this country into the war would hasten peace. July contracts sold up to 7.73c and December to 7.98c, with the general list showing net gains of about 9@12 points during the early afternoon. Later there were slight reactions owing to reports of easier cost and freight offers, with the market closing at a net advance of 4@8 points. Sales, 37,250 bags: April, 7.51c; May, 7.58c; June, 7.63c; July, 7.68c; August, 7.74c; September, 7.80c; October, 7.84c; November, 7.88c; December, 7.92c; January, 7.99c; February, 8.06c; March, 8.12c. Spot coffee quiet. Rio 7s, 9½c; Santos 4s, 9¼c. It was reported that Brazil was accepting bids at concessions and that sales had been made at comparatively low prices, including Santos 3s and 4s at 9.25c and 4s at 9.15c, London credits. The official cables reported a decline of 50 reis in the Rio market, but Santos futures were 25@50 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts, 16,000; Jundiahy, 4,000. The world's visible supply statement showed a decrease of 509,964 bags for March, against 402,582 last year, making the visibles as of April 1, 9,802,498, against 8,939,132 last year.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 3.—SUGAR—The market for raw sugar showed a slightly easier tone for nearby shipments today, while later positions were firmly held. There were sales of 8,000 bags of Cubas for April shipment at 4 31-32c cost and freight, 10,000 bags for last half April shipment at 5c cost and freight, and 15,000 bags of Cubas for May shipment at 5c cost and freight. The market closed barely steady, with Cubas afloat offered at 4 15-16c cost and freight, equal to 5.96c for centrifugal and 5.08c for molasses, while for May shipment holders asked 5c cost and freight, equal to 6.02c for centrifugal. Refined sugar was firm, with one refiner advancing list prices 25 points to the basis of 7.50c for fine granulated. Others were unchanged, ranging from 7.25@8.00c for fine granulated. Futures were higher early on covering and buying from Wall street sources, with prices at one time 2@6 points net higher. The more liberal offerings in the spot market and the indifference shown by buyers for nearby shipment sugars seemed to discourage the demand and selling became more aggressive as the day progressed, with prices easing off quite sharply, closing 2@7 points net lower. Sales, 23,500 tons. Total stocks in licensed warehouses aggregate 398,069 tons, against 222,626 tons a week ago. May sold from 5.21@5.09c, closing 5.09c; July, 5.30@5.19c, closing 5.20c; September, 5.39@5.27, closing 5.28c; December, 5.01@4.92c, closing 4.96c.

CHICAGO, April 3.—SUGAR—Sugar prices were quoted by the wholesale dealers per 100 lbs: Cut loaf, H. & E., $9.08; powdered, standard, $8.18; standard cane granulated, $7.90; beet granulated, $7.70; extra C, $7.15; canary, $7.20.

MARKET STATUS AKIN TO START OF WAR IN 1898

Country Prosperous Now, as Then; Confidence in Outcome Similar.

Market conditions are similar in kind but not in degree to those which obtained at the outbreak of the war with Spain in 1898. News events also have been somewhat similar. The declaration on April 19, 1898, in favor of intervention in Cuba, was preceded by a violent jar in the stock market following the sinking of the Maine on Feb. 15. The latter event caused a quick slump in prices averaging 10 points and it had been preceded by irregularity following developments in Cuba. The declaration of war a little more than two months later accentuated the price decline, but it was brief and thereafter the trend was generally upward.

In the present market there has been a greater era of expansion due to activity in war stocks, but this has been brought to a moderate level in the stock market, first through fear of peace and next the crash following the declaration Jan. 31 of a return to drastic submarine warfare. Other falls of lesser consequence reduced the level of prices and restricted speculation until a fair comparison exists between conditions existing and those of 1898.

Business Conditions Similar.

At the time of the Spanish-American war, business was active as it is now. The banks of the country had made a record for large deposits as they have now. The exports of merchandise had made a record as they have now; gold imports were large as at present, and crops were good, and money cheap—1½ and 2 per cent for call funds with commercial paper around 4 per cent.

In 1898 the first gun was fired when in April the navy captured the Buena Ventura, the first war prize, and on April 27, the fleet bombarded Matanzas. From the beginning the war was all favorable to the United States and after the battle of Manila Bay, on May 1, it was over so far as the stock market was concerned.

The low prices of the year were mostly made in March and April, while in January stocks were at a high level. Lake Shore for instance, sold at 194¾; the low price was 170¾, and in December the quotation was 215. Rock Island, then active, sold early in January at 94½; on March 25 it dropped to 80, and it closed the year at 114⅞. St. Paul at the opening of 1898 sold at 94½; its low price was made in April at 82¾, and it finished the year at 120⅜.

Interest Rates Kept Down.

At no time in the twelve months did interest rates rise above 6 per cent, and that quotation was for only a few days at a time. The country was fast recovering from the panicky conditions of 1896. Confidence in business had been restored and the war merely jarred the situation for a few months.

At the present time there have been a number of marked reactions in stocks, but business cannot be said to have halted on account of the war. The record of exports, showing a net gain of over $5,600,000,000, speaks for the item of business activity. Gold imports at $290,000,000 since the beginning of the present year make a record for any three month period and compare with net imports of $148,141,800 for the entire year of 1898, and the latter was a record at that time.

Confidence in Present Outcome.

Owing to the distance of German operations, there is lack at present of general fear of consequences, just as there was confidence in the outcome nineteen years ago. At this time the industries of the country are plethoric with surplus earnings, and, though it is expected the government, following the example set by European governments, will tax profits, the apprehension from this source is as yet regarded as being of a temporary character.

Altogether there is nothing in the present war situation that immediately suggests a greatly different trend of prices than that which obtained in the Spanish-American war. There are, however, different possibilities which, if they eventuate, will vastly change the face of things.

Ohio Cities Gas.

Announcement came from New York that the Ohio Cities Gas company now has a daily production of approximately 9,500 barrels of oil. Of this 5,000 barrels is produced in the Oklahoma fields, 2,500 in West Virginia, and 2,000 in Ohio. The refineries in Oklahoma are operated and the new refinery in West Virginia is expected to be in operation by July 1. For the first three months of the current calendar year the profits were above $2,000,000.

In Foreign Stock Markets.

LONDON, April 3.—President Wilson's speech caused a feeling of satisfaction in financial circles here, as it is recognized that the raising of necessary credits will be considerably facilitated. New York exchange was firm today, and Paris improved on the belief that action will be taken regarding the exchange position. In the money market it is the opinion that as soon as America's financial plans are disclosed the bank rate will be lowered. The stock market had a good tone on the president's address, and, while no spectacular buying occurred, a feeling of quiet confidence prevailed. Allied bonds were firmer and American rails were marked higher with a few transactions in securities not requisitioned for exchange purposes.

PARIS, April 3.—Trading was dull on the bourse today; rentes, 61f 30c; exchange on London, 27f 75c; 5 per cent loan, 88f 35c.

In times of national stress and especially in times of war, we must look to the American farmer to supply our nation with the principal sinew of warfare—Sufficient Food Supply.

The farmer is a constant borrower, as he can well afford to pay interest on a loan which helps him improve and build up his property and make it a more efficient crop producer.

A Farmer's Needs Are Legion. Horses and Machinery to till his land and produce bread and feed crops. Then he must have stock—cattle, hogs and sheep—to consume those feed crops and turn them into beef, milk, butter, pork, lard, mutton and wool. Stock calls for the necessary equipment—warm barns, silos and special machinery.

How better can the investing public assist him to meet the national needs than to purchase his obligations secured and collateraled by the acres of his farm?

The well secured farm mortgage carefully chosen and negotiated through firms of experience and integrity is an investment whose safety and staunchness no man can destroy.

REAL ESTATE AS A QUICK ASSET

While the manner of showing title has nothing whatever to do with making real estate a quick asset or a slow asset, real estate being a quick asset the moment a purchaser has been found for the particular tract in question and being a slow asset until such purchaser is found; it should be borne in mind that the moment a purchaser is found the Chicago Title and Trust Company stands ready to furnish record evidence of the title on a few hours' notice when quick action is one of the requisites of the sale.

Where there is only a single transfer of real estate the transaction can be closed in much less time than a stock certificate bought on the New York Stock Exchange can be transferred and delivered.

R. J. EDERER CO. BUYS PROPERTY ON NORTH SIDE

Real Estate Transfers.

Real estate transfers filed for record yesterday totaled 292, of which 233 were in the city and 59 outside, including 20 under the Torrens system. Transfers were as follows:

An important deal has been closed in the near north side manufacturing district involving the construction of a building to cost $200,000. It was purchased by the R. J. Ederer company, manufacturers of fish nets, now at 317 North Michigan boulevard, from the Union Drop Forge company, of the property at the southwest corner of Orleans and Ohio streets, consideration nominal, but said to have been $105,000. It has a frontage of 263.28 feet in Ohio street by 100 feet in Orleans street, which the purchasing company plans to improve with a building to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000, which it will occupy with its own business.

Plans and specifications have been prepared by Holabird & Roche for the building, which is to be four stories and basement, mill construction. Gilbert Scribner represented the Ederer company and Harold A. Howard the Union Drop Forge company. White & Tabor were associated in the deal. John Cameron of Custer & Cameron attended to the legal details.

Building to Be Wrecked.

Of interest in this connection is the fact that the building which the purchasing company now occupies in North Michigan avenue will be torn down in connection with the construction of the boulevard link and the area of the lot reduced approximately one-half. Inasmuch as the company was cramped for space in the present building, they decided to acquire another site, which will take care of the needs of its business for some time to come. In connection with the purchase the Ederer company gave a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company to secure a loan of $70,000, due April 11, 1919, at 4½ per cent.

An interesting transaction in Chicago Heights manufacturing property, made a matter of record, was the sale by the Kennicott company to Frank Harris, of Harris Bros. company, machinery manufacturers, of the plant of the former on State street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, and on the B. & O. right of way for an expressed consideration of $110,000 clear. The property comprises between seven and eight acres and is improved with six buildings, a steel building, 100x400 feet, an office and power building, as well as other smaller ones.

Indiana Avenue Sale.

Several noteworthy transactions in apartment property also figured in the day's news. One of the most important of these was the sale by Edward J. and William H. Kelly to John H. Mulhern of Chicago Heights of the high grade eighteen apartment building, with 75x160 feet of ground, at 4836-46 Indiana avenue. The building was completed last October and has an annual gross rental of about $7,500. While a nominal consideration was given, it is said to have been $65,000, subject to an incumbrance of $36,000. The clear high grade three apartment building at 5326 Michigan avenue was taken in part payment at a valuation of $22,000. Arthur J. Malholt of C. H. Dehning & Co. represented both parties.

Record was made of the transfer by Edwin P. Benedict to Chester W. Brown of the property at the northeast corner of Calumet avenue and Fifty-third street, lot 100x196 feet, west front, improved with a twenty-four apartment building erected about ten years ago. A nominal consideration was given, subject to an incumbrance of $48,100.

Apartment Building Sold.

The twelve apartment building at the southeast corner of Rosemont and Glenwood avenues, lot 47x125 feet, has been sold by Theodore C. Peterson to Bertha Schulzke for a reported consideration of $43,000, subject to an incumbrance of $22,500.

In this connection Mrs. Schulzke conveyed to Cornelius O. Clemit the six apartment building at 3822-24 Sheffield avenue, for a reported consideration of $22,000, subject to an incumbrance of $6,000. R. M. Westhagen of the Lake View Real Estate exchange represented both parties. In part payment 200 acres in Marinette county, Wis., were conveyed.

Rhodes Avenue Trade.

The property at the northwest corner of Rhodes avenue and Thirty-second street, lot 50x140 feet, with three story building has been conveyed by Robert S. Nethery to Memorial hospital, consideration nominal, subject to $17,000 incumbrance. The building at one time was known as the Woman's hospital, and later as the Douglas hospital.

Mercy hospital and Orphan asylum has acquired from Elizabeth A. Johnson the property in Prairie avenue, 199½ feet South of Twenty-fifth street, 49x187 feet, west front, for an expressed consideration of $18,000. It is understood the property was acquired for future possible requirements.

Realty Board to Meet.

The monthly meeting of the Chicago real estate board will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Some action probably will be taken on the war situation.

The six flat building at 6238-40 Blackstone avenue has been sold by William O. Carr to J. S. Robbins of McCool, Ind., for a reported consideration of $24,000, the seller taking in part payment a farm of 120 acres in Portage county, Wis. McCollam & Kruggel were the brokers.

SHARP ADVANCE IN NORTHWEST WHEAT MARKETS

War News and Bad Crop Reports Help Prices.

The Chicago board of trade was closed yesterday because of the municipal election and the Kansas City, St. Louis, Duluth, and Toledo markets followed suit. Minneapolis and Winnipeg were the only markets of importance open and they made a remarkable display of strength, although comparatively little business was transacted. Minneapolis wheat closed 2⅞@3⅝c higher, while Winnipeg wheat was 2¼@2⅝c higher. Winnipeg oats finished 1½@1⅞c higher.

Selling pressure was extremely light in the northwest markets, while the buying was based largely on belief that the Chicago market would be higher today, because of war news and bad crop reports from Nebraska and Kansas.

No Export Sales Reported.

Seaboard reports indicated no export buying, but the opinion was expressed in some quarters that more would be heard of government buying of grain with the war move against Germany. The strength at Winnipeg led to some claims of buying of future contracts. European crop advices were again unfavorable.

Cash wheat at Minneapolis was reported as slow and about 5c lower for everything but No. 1 northern. Much wheat was carried over unsold. Flour trade dull and car shortage no better. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 230,000 bu for three days. Receipts at Minneapolis were 389 cars, against 259 a year ago, while Winnipeg had 645 cars, against 806 last year.

Heavy Loss in Kansas.

According to a report by the secretary of the Kansas board of agriculture the wheat crop prospect in the western two-thirds of Kansas, comprising the wheat belt proper, is decidedly poor. The eastern third of Kansas, especially in counties south of the Kansas river, is in good condition and promises well, although in this portion the area sown is comparatively small. The indications are that a large acreage of oats has been planted and that more corn, sorghum, and barley will be put in than usual.

Rain or snow is officially predicted for Kansas and Nebraska, as well as Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, and South Dakota, within the next twenty-four hours.

Northwest Range of Prices.

GROUND FLOOR

The New Orleans Great Northern Railway opens for farm settlement the immense acreage of the great lumber company lands along its lines in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Growing towns, churches, schools, lumber companies, shipbuilding, turpentine distilleries, pine oil, and paper mills have sprung up all along the line of the railroad, but timber being the chief asset, the land itself, regardless of its great agricultural worth, has been carried on the books at a mere nominal value.

As the timber is being cut and the stumps and discarded tree trunks and limbs in the logging field are being ground into pulp for pine oil, turpentine, and the manufacture of paper, an immense acreage of virgin land close in to the railroad, towns, factories, churches, and schools is being left for farm occupation.

Unless the railroad settles these lands with farmers it will fail to provide for a chief source of revenue when the timber is gone, and the railroad, with its future means of support materially at stake, will therefore afford every aid in the matter of prices, terms, and co-operation in obtaining settlers on the land.

WRITE WALTER S. AYRES, INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER, N. O. G. N. Ry., 864 McCormick Bldg., Chicago, Ill., how to obtain first hand a desirable farm out of this great body of cheap virgin land.

Texas.

FOR SALE—NEW FARM OPPORTUNITY IN ONE OF THE GREATEST STATES IN THE UNION. A new line of the Santa Fe is tapping a rich and fertile prairie section of Northwest Texas, near the Oklahoma line, where already many farmers have MADE GOOD in a big way with wheat, hogs, and live stock. Here, if you ACT NOW, you can get first choice—get in on the ground floor of a great opportunity. You can get in AHEAD of the railway—ahead of the people whom the railway will bring—ahead of those who act more slowly than you do. This is the chance of a lifetime for a man of moderate means, or for the man who has paid rent all his life and now has just a little money. A certain number of thrifty, far-seeing farmers can acquire good land at an astonishingly low figure and on long, easy terms. If you have confidence that a great railroad, like the Santa Fe, would only recommend what it considers a good thing, and because it wants to see new territory developed and wants newcomers to PROSPER and PRODUCE—then write me TODAY for particulars about this district. Mild climate, social advantages, schools, churches, telephones, good roads. Everything there but enough men with their families. Will you be one of the fortunate first comers to reap the advantages of a section that has been minutely inspected by a Santa Fe agricultural agent and pronounced RIGHT! Write me NOW and let me send you a copy of the special illustrated circular we are getting out. C. L. SEAGRAVES, Industrial Commissioner, A. T. & S. F. Ry., 1105 Railway Exchange, Chicago.

War Time Opportunity

March 6th, 1917, full and basic protection was granted, by Washington, on a certain invention.

Within the last three weeks the article in question has been manufactured in a small way to feel out its market. It has been shown to exactly fifteen potential purchasers, including six Chicago department stores and jobbers. Exactly fourteen of these fifteen literally thrust their orders upon us. Every delivery thus far made has resulted in reorders for multiplied quantities. We are now in possession of an embarrassment of bona fide, tangible, and profitable orders.

As the result of a small advertisement appearing in the March 28th issue of a certain trade publication, we have to date [March 30th] been inundated by orders, sent by post and by wire [many accompanied by cash] from all parts of the country.

The article involved retails for approximately $1.00 and carries a substantial profit for manufacturer, jobber, and retailer. Its field is national in scope. It can be manufactured inexpensively and quickly.

With our present resources we are making a big success. Because of our country's growing preparedness sentiment—a condition conducing directly and inevitably to the unlimited possibilities of this business—we propose to expand.

For this purpose we can use $10,000 additional capital. No more. While an investment in this business of half or of all of the aforementioned amount will probably prove exceedingly profitable, it will not relieve the present owners of the responsibility of controlling the business.

Particularly anxious are we to secure the services, with investment, of a first class office man, one who can take full charge of accounts, credits, etc.

Ample factory facilities have already been leased and shipments of $1,000 daily will be made within one month.

The men now connected with this business are of unimpeachable integrity. They are in no sense stock jobbers or promoters. Nor will they permit their business to be handled, in whole or in part, by any but business men of their own caliber. The most exacting investigation is invited and will, in turn, be made. For particulars address T 523, Tribune.

Boots and Low Shoes for Spring and Summer

To Favor Every Desire of Fashion— to Meet Every Requirement of Every Occasion

With this exhibit is sounded every note of a new season as it concerns footwear.

Comprehensive as these assortments are, there has not been lost that accurate attention to detail in each individual pair, that degree of skilled workmanship, which raise the craft of the shoemaker to the plane of an art, and sustain for these sections that position of style-supremacy for which they are so well and so favorably known.

The time, the place and the person—are the underlying theme in these displays, which may be viewed as follows:

"Evening"—

The most formal occasions of spring and summer demand a lighter, more dainty touch in footwear than those of other seasons. This phase of footwear takes form in:

Brocaded tinsel slippers with the backs and heels of satin—fashioned on long, aristocratic lines and offered in shades of pale blue and pink. This pair is pictured at the left, $15.

"Reception"—

Less formal events cast their favor to shoes of both low and high degree and fashion approves both these widely different modes as they are in:

Boots of either gray or white kid with brocaded toppings and dainty French heels. Pictured at the left. $11.50.

Slippers of great simplicity and great elegance are these of soft kid, ivory, gray, white, brown and black patent leather. Sketched at the right, $10.

"Tropical"—

The northern summer inherits a delightfully cool and sensible shoe mode. It comes to us now in this guise:

Pumps of soft white Sea Island canvas with the soles of white leather, and covered heels. Pictured at the right. $6.50.

Colonials, also of white Sea Island canvas, delightfully appropriate with the summer frock or suit. Pictured at left. $6.50.

"Ties," too, may be had of this material.

"Travel"—

Modes that take fashion wherever the traveler goes are these boots and low shoes, having the subtle quality of being appropriate for other occasions, too.

Lace boots of black kid, brown kid or black kid with gray kid toppings, with perforations smartly placed. Sketched at the right. $15.

Low-cut shoes, practical in style and in colorings, black kid or bronze kid. At the left. $8. Also Gibson ties and pumps for travel wear. $7.50.

"Habit"—

Under this ruling comes footwear for those sports whose dictates are fast and absolute—to which one adheres without deviation to achieve smartness:

Riding boots, in tan or black calf with instep straps. $15. Puttees in tan or black with strap or spring, well made in every detail. At the right. $5.50.

Motor boots, of gray buckskin, made on strictly tailored lines, with straps and buckles. The heel is high and dainty. At the left. $19. Same in tan and black calf with Cuban heels. $15.

"Walking"—

Oxfords in tan or black, built on the easy, springing lines one wants in shoes for walking and yet retaining all claims to mode. Sketched at left. $7.50 and $8.

"Shopping"—

An added degree of comfort in the fashioning of heels and soles, and yet not one whit of smartness lost in these shoe modes for the hours women devote to shopping:

Pumps low of heel, with a smart winged tip and a tailored bow set smartly at the top, in tan or black. At the left. $12.50 and $13.50.

Lace boots in tan calf or black kid, with the heels of medium height and toppings of gray buckskin—boots to add distinction to the street costume. At the right. $13.50.

"Matinee"—

Fashion makes this division in her decrees of time and place and provides for it these most attractive of the new modes:

Spat slippers of soft black kid, long and narrow and ornamented with white stitching. At the left. $12.

Spats in all the new colorings in the trig, tailored lines so much sought. $3 and $3.50.

"Afternoon"—

More latitude than ever is afforded by fashion in footwear for those events scheduled "Afternoon" and one finds such as these:

"Sports"—

Into the great out-of-doors one steps jauntily in footwear made for no other purpose but to wear at whatever spring or summer playing one elects.

White buck lace boots trimmed with white leather, and with white leather soles. Pictured at the left. $16.50. Also boots of white buck, tan calf and white canvas, $6, $8, $9.

Oxfords of white buck with trimming of tan, white or biscuit color. Sketched at the right. $11.50. Also oxfords of white buck, tan calf and white canvas with rubber soles. $5.50, $7 and $8.
